House Favors Tax On Logging, Mines

Socreds, CCF in Agreement On Principle of Profits Levy

BY T. A. MYERS
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The legislature Wednesday night overwhelmingly approved the principle of new 10 per cent taxes on logging and mining profits. Only Liberal and Conservative members opposed them.

CCFers in the House endorsed the taxation, but expressed fear that big forest industries might be able to "slip out from under" and "shove the tax burden onto the small operators."

Premier Bennett, in a long dissertation on the intent of the bills, the arguments against them and the government's counter-arguments, said the new taxes might produce $3,500,000 in a good year, but probably not more than $1,000,000 for the balance of this fiscal year.

Liberal leader Arthur Laing, opposing the bills, demanded to know if the province really needed the extra money when it could afford to pay off $34,000,000 of the public debt in a year.

Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers gave the House a peek at the government's cards when he said the government plans to ask Ottawa for a better federal-provincial taxation deal. If the province had not exhausted all the revenue possibilities under the present agreement—and that included the proposed new taxes—"we wouldn't have a case," he said.

TAXES DEDUCTIBLE

Premier Bennett told the House companies would be able to deduct the new taxes as business expenses when computing their federal income taxes.

He cited the case of a company with a taxable income of $1,000,000. The company's total tax would go up from $484,000 to $508,000, an increase of $21,000. The province would gain $17,000; Ottawa would lose only $23,500 he said.

Opposition Leader Arnold Webster, giving the CCF's blessing to the bills, complimented the government for "the few steps it has taken toward redistribution of the tax burden."

Mr. Laing said his Liberal group was against the bills "and we will do everything in this House and outside of it to oppose them. Our basic industries are in such a parlous state that to put an extra burden on them is sheerest folly."

He said this year's log cut had been "too good for our general good." There were 900,000,000 feet of logs in the water, unsold, he said.

'MOST DANGEROUS'

"Our short-range position in this province is the most dangerous we have experienced since 1929," he declared. "I want to tell the leader of the opposition that before we get back here in February he'll regret supporting these bills. Where do you think the extra money is going to come from? . . . It all lands on labor . . . Labor is going to have to accept lower wages or go without a job."

Anthony Gargrave (CCF, Mackenzie), Robert M. Strachan (CCF, Cowichan-Newcastle) and other CCFers voiced fears that big corporations could evade the tax at the expense of small operators.

"The big companies are ready for this tax," Mr. Strachan said. "They've had plenty of warning. They're not afraid of it."

The CCF view was that large, integrated forest industries could force down the market price of logs. A few operations control 60 per cent of the logging on the Coast, Mr. Strachan said, and buy up the other 40 per cent of the logs produced. By holding out they could depress the price of logs

Coast ILA Bolting

SEATTLE (AP) — A leader of the International Longshoremen's Association said Wednesday most of its 1,500 west coast members have bolted the Joe Ryan-led national union for the AFL.

Robert R. Collins of Seattle said he has resigned as an international vice-president of the ILA, and that most of the old ILA locals on the Pacific coast have applied for separate AFL charters.

He said the locals seeking AFL charters include those in Tacoma, Port Angeles and Anacortes, Wash., and Anchorage, Valdez, Haines and Homer, Alaska.

The ILA on the west coast has had members only in Washington state, British Columbia and Alaska.

Collins said he and George Miller of Tacoma, president of the ILA's Pacific coast district, applied for AFL charters for both Pacific Coast and Puget Sound districts.

FORECAST CONFIRMED

The action confirmed a move forecast by Collins when Ryan's ILA was expelled by the AFL at the latter's national convention in St. Louis last month.

"Our people here always have been AFL-minded," Collins said.

"We want to stay with the AFL, which always has supported us. Out here on the west coast the ILA never has been accused of racketeering or other crimes like those charged in the New York area."

Blaze Injures Twelve

VANCOUVER (CP)—At least 12 firemen were injured Wednesday night as a stubborn blaze destroyed a modern Canada Safeway Ltd., market in south Vancouver.

Company officials estimated damage at $350,000. The $275,000 building and more than $60,000 worth of merchandise were a total loss.

OVERCOME BY SMOKE

The firemen were overcome by smoke when they attempted to enter the charred structure more than four hours after the blaze broke out. Ambulances set up a shuttle service between hospital and the fire and other firemen were treated on the scene for minor injuries.

The fire was started by a spark from a welder's torch which ignited insulation in the wall of a basement meat locker. The flames gained a hold on the insulation despite the efforts of three workmen, only persons in the store at the time.

AFTERNOON BLAZE

The store was closed up at 1 p.m. for the regular Wednesday half-day holiday. The fire started about 2.30 p.m.

Clouds of acrid smoke billowed from the building. Accumulations of gas in the basement caused two explosions.

Firemen estimated that it would take most of the night to get the smoke cleared enough to enter the basement.

House Opens November 12

OTTAWA (BUP)—The cabinet Wednesday formally set the date for the opening of the 22nd parliament as November 12.

The decision to convene parliament on Thursday, November 12, was formally made at a cabinet meeting. The session is expected to last three weeks.

Three Charged with Murder

Kidnapped Child Slain

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Little Bobby Greenlease's body was dug out of a shallow grave Wednesday, ending with sickening tragedy 10 days of waiting by his wealthy parents who paid a record $600,000 ransom for his return.

Arrested as his kidnappers were the woman who lived in the house in St. Joseph, Mo., where the body was found, and her ex-convict boy friend, Carl Austin Hall, 37, whose spending spree in St. Louis led police to part of the ransom money.

The slightly-built, six-year-old boy had been shot and killed the same day the woman, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, took him from his private school by a ruse.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and police are searching for Thomas Marsh, 37, another paroled convict who, Hall said, shot and killed Bobby. Earlier, the FBI had said Hall, a former rich boy turned bandit, had admitted the little boy was shot even before he mailed the ransom note to the father, multi-millionaire Robert C. Greenlease Sr., 71-year-old automobile dealer, and his wife.

Hall said he had not seen Marsh since the first day of the kidnapping, and had carried out negotiations for the ransom payment alone.

At St. Joseph, prosecutor John E. Downs signed first-degree murder warrants against Hall, Mrs. Heady and Marsh Wednesday night. Downs said an assistant would go to St. Louis Thursday and try to have Hall and Mrs. Heady taken to St. Joseph for trial.

Federal and county prosecutors in Kansas City were still conferring to determine whether state or federal kidnapping charges will be filed. Charges under either statute carry the death penalty.

Hall and Mrs. Heady were arrested by St. Louis police, who got a tip Hall was on a spending spree. They found $300,000 of the ransom money in a room at a motor court.

Questioning by police and the FBI brought out the sordid story of the abduction, the murder and five days of negotiation for payment of the ransom.

A fourth person was questioned by the FBI here Wednesday and held as a material witness. She is Sandra June O'Day, 22, of St. Louis.

The tragic turn in the kidnapping came after elaborate delivery of the ransom.

The money, stuffed in an army duffel bag, had been dumped out of a car by a Greenlease representative Sunday night.

The family had complied with a letter demanding $600,000 in $10 and $20 bills. The letter was received the night of the kidnapping.

The bag was dropped over a bridge a few miles from Kansas City. Shortly afterward a telephone call told the family it would learn through a telegram Monday, October 5, where to find the boy.

The telegram never came.

Bill Prods Snails

Slow Drivers Face Action

A prod for slow drivers was a surprise included in a bill to amend the Motor Vehicles Act introduced in the legislature Wednesday night.

The bill would prohibit driving at "such a slow speed as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic, except when reduced speed is necessary for safe operation or in compliance with law."

Police officers would have power to tell a too-slow driver to get a move on.

A feature of the bill which was well publicized in advance would cut passenger-car license fees by 10 per cent.

Other sections allow magistrates to suspend driver's licenses on conviction of dangerous driving under the Criminal Code, and legalize suspension of licenses under the "driver education program" now used by the Motor Vehicles Branch against drivers with poor records.

The license fee reductions apply only to passenger cars, motorcycles and trailers. License fees are based on the weight of the vehicles, and the new schedule is as follows (with 1953 figures in brackets):

1,500 pounds or less, $10.80 ($12).

1,501 to 2,000 pounds, $14.40 ($16).

2,001 to 3,000 pounds, $18 ($20).

3,001 to 4,000 pounds, $22.50 ($25).

4,001 to 5,000 pounds, $31.50 ($35).

5,001 to 6,000 pounds, $45 ($50).

6,001 to 7,000 pounds, $58.50 ($65).

Most popular passenger cars weigh between 2,000 and 4,000 pounds. License fees for these cars will drop by $2 or $2.50.

Traffic Check Makes Haul

A traffic check by RCMP and game department officials Wednesday will result in several charges.

From 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Colwood detachment of the RCMP and Game Wardens Bob Sinclair and Joe Jones checked all traffic coming down-Island.

Some drivers were found without driving licenses and some were found driving while licenses were suspended. A number of check-up slips were issued to drivers whose cars were defective.

Game officials seized one rifle.

RCMP checked 46 gravel trucks at their weigh-in station in the afternoon. Charges will be held against four found overweight.

Spill from gravel trucks has proved a nuisance on the Island Highway in recent weeks.

Counting Ransom Took 80 All Night

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Arthur B. Eisenhower, brother of the U.S. President, said Wednesday night he was asked in the forenoon of Tuesday, September 29, to provide $600,000 in ransom money to the father of slain Bobby Greenlease.

Eisenhower appeared at a special press conference.

"I was first called into this case by Mr. (Robert) Lederman and Robert Greenlease at the bank sometime in the forenoon of September 29," he said. Eisenhower is vice-president of the Commerce Trust Co., one of Kansas City's largest banks.

Eisenhower said Lederman, a business partner of millionaire Greenlease, did most of the talking. They asked him if he had $600,000.

"I said 'Yes'," Eisenhower said. "We have much more than that."

"We mean in 10s and 20s," Eisenhower quoted Lederman as saying.

"I replied 'No,' since that had to come from 12 federal reserve banks," Eisenhower said. The money was obtained Tuesday afternoon and at 9.30 a.m. Wednesday, September 30, it was ready.

Asked if the serial numbers were recorded, Eisenhower said, "No comment."

He said 80 persons worked overtime counting the money.

"They had a good idea of what they were doing, but we tried to keep it a secret."

The money was $200,000 in 10s and $400,000 in 20s, making a total of 40,000 bills.

British Warships' Arrival Assailed by Guiana Leader

GEORGETOWN (CP) — A British cruiser and two frigates arrived here Wednesday night with 600 troops to thwart a feared Communist uprising in British Guiana.

The warships arrived shortly after leftist Premier Cheddi Jagan failed in a bid to have the House of Assembly (lower house) condemn the presence of British forces.

Jagan's motion said the presence of British forces was "an act of intimidation and provocation likely to precipitate incidents and to endanger the peace and harmony of this country."

The Speaker, Sir Eustace Woolford, over-ruled Jagan's effort to suspend the standing rules to debate his motion.

The premier had proposed that his resolution be forwarded to Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton, the British Labor party, the National Council of Civil Liberties in Britain and the Congress of Civil Rights in the United States.

Jagan also asked that the resolution be sent to the United Nations and various other international bodies.

The three warships anchored off Georgetown Wednesday night. The 8,000-ton cruiser Superb had 500 Royal Welsh Fusiliers aboard. Officials believed the 1,600-ton frigates Bigbury Bay and Burghead Bay would ferry the troops ashore during the night.

In the capital, police and military headquarters were floodlighted in case of mob action.

The 9,100-ton cruiser Sheffield sailed from Scotland Tuesday and the second-largest Royal Navy aircraft carrier, the 33,000-ton Implacable, prepared to rush reinforcements across the Atlantic.

The People's Progressive party said in a statement earlier:

"... There is no disturbance, unrest or violence. In this hour, when the British colonial office is trying to create hysteria and rob us of our rights, we ask the people of Guiana to remain calm, quiet and firm."

Log Truck Hurls Bus Into Canyon

SWEET HOME, Ore. (AP)—A loaded logging truck, its driver possibly dead at the wheel, careened down a mountain highway east of here Wednesday and crashed head-on into a Pacific Trailways bus.

The bus was hurled from the highway 50 feet down into the South Santiam River canyon.

The huge Douglas fir logs sheared the cab from the logging truck, then plummeted after the bus, battering its top.

The bus driver and 12 passengers suffered injuries—mostly to heads and backs. But attendants at two hospitals said that, barring the effects of shock, all should recover.

—The truck driver, Harold Sharp, 27, Brownsville, Ore., was dead when rescuers arrived. Coroner Glenn Huston said bus passengers told him they saw Sharp's head back against the seat and his mouth open, just before the crash. He might have suffered a heart attack or other seizure, the coroner said.

Fire Causes Fatality

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Lila Chapman, 58, was killed Wednesday night when she was struck by a fire chief's car speeding to the Safeway market fire in South Vancouver.

Police said the woman was crossing the road and the car failed to see her in time to stop.

Slides Menaced Whatshan 14 Months Before Burying It

VANCOUVER (CP) — Earth slides were threatening the Whatshan hydro-electric development at least 14 months before disastrous mud and rock slides put the power plant out of action.

That was disclosed Wednesday at the royal commission hearing here into the cause of the slides August 11 and 16, which buried the B.C. Power Commission's plant and switching station.

Testifying before special commissioner Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne, civil engineer Andrew G. Ballantyne of the power commission said he observed two slow earth slides above the plant in June, 1952.

Earlier, C. W. Tysoe, inquiry counsel, said deep rock faults were causing trouble while the $5,800,000 development was under construction.

S. R. Weston, chairman of the power commission, admitted under questioning that contractors had trouble with faulty rock formations inside the two-mile water tunnel serving the plant. He said was his personal opinion, though not necessarily that of the commission, that faulty rock formations had been indirectly responsible for the slides.

Chest Total $50,622

The Greater Victoria Community Chest is now nearly one-quarter of the way to its objective with the current collection campaign going into its eighth day.

An audit of collections, completed by Chest officials Wednesday night, showed that residents of Greater Victoria have so far contributed $50,622.42 to the coffers of the Chest.

Officials said the house-to-house canvass in residential districts has brought in a total of $9,943.87 so far.

Aluminum Firm Eyes Situation

MONTREAL (CP)—Officials of the Aluminum Company of Canada said Wednesday they are keeping a close watch on developments in troubled British Guiana, where the firm has an investment of $30,000,000.

The firm did not want to become entangled in a straight political situation, but wanted to safeguard its property.

President R. E. Powell said the firm's huge bauxite works have not been threatened with nationalization or labor difficulties, although demands are being made on the colony's sugar industry.

Bauxite is the ore from which aluminum is manufactured, and Mr. Powell said that by the end of next year the company's investment in production of bauxite there would reach $40,000,000.

Mr. Powell said there is a nest of Communism, fostered if not financed by Russia, operating in the colony.

He said it would be a catastrophe if what happened in Iran was repeated in British Guiana. He urged Britain, the United States and Canada to take steps to prevent the colony from falling under Red leadership.

Cloak-and-Dagger Boys Object to Friends' Knives in Back

The writer has been European correspondent for The Cleveland Plain Dealer for nearly six years. He has no fixed beat abroad, though his headquarters are in Rome. Speaking seven languages, he has covered the European continent, North Africa and Near East as a roving correspondent.

BY JOHN P. LEACACOS

BERLIN (NANA)—A realistic size-up of the sources of information concerning possibilities of revolution for liberation of East Germany discloses one astonishing fact to outsiders:

Intelligence agencies and/or cloak-and-dagger boys of all nationalities here are apparently more interested in figuratively cutting each other's throats than in promoting uprisings against East German Reds.

Persons who ought to know estimate that as many as 30 organizations integrested in the Soviet Zone have offices here in West Berlin. About 10 or 15 American, British and French and the rest West German.

The British (who seem to get most of the few Soviet defectors, incidentally) and the French complain morosely about the Americans. The Yanks, it's charged, spirit key refugees to secret hideouts, decline to share information and, in general, with more cash to spend, try to hog the whole intelligence picture.

The Americans smile primly and save their bitterest taunts for each other. Sometimes it looks as if an American agency gets as much kick out of putting one over on a rival American outfit as it does out of beating the friendly foreigners to the steadily slimmer pickings.

United States army G-2s in several echelons, the CIC, ONI, AFI, state department, central intelligence agency and goodness knows who else scramble for "scoops" like competing newspapers in a hot circulation area. Aides to generals scrap about who's going to get in first to the boss with the day's "dope." Co-ordination seems to be just a word in the dictionary.

All the Allies unite in one matter: Beefing about the Germans. Feeling their oats more and more day by day, the Germans get the lion's share of what comes across the Red borders, according to Western sources.

Three special German outfits who get the all-essential first contacts with refugees or agents arriving in West Berlin include the military espionage section of the future Bonn defense ministry under Theodor Blank; a counterespionage agency named the Office for Protection of the German Constitution, likewise emanating from Bonn, and department K-5 of the West Berlin police.

In turn, the Germans complain the Allied agencies are all "take" and no "give." This means the following:

The contractual agreements restoring 98 per cent of German sovereignty (as soon as everybody ratifies the European army treaty) in effect obligates the United States to hand over intelligence reports to the Germans. But now the Germans want assistance (meaning money) from the Americans to help organize resistance groups in the East zone and to coordinate intelligence activities in a nice, orderly German style.

"You Americans," cried one interested party, "are sitting here with 1,000 agents in the powerhouse of West Berlin without building any revolutionary conduits to the East."

In the last two years, United States organizations here have failed to give anti-Red groups any advice about what to do, Germans charge. Risking their necks to obtain intelligence for the Americans—without aid in matters closer to German interests—is strictly one-way traffic and unfair, they add.

Perhaps a portion of the German complaint is valid, experts admit. East zone contacts of the private West Berlin bodies are scattered and disorganized. Social Democrats, for example, have networks in East German towns and factories. The "Fighting Group Against Inhumanity" had a ring exclusively in towns but the Red secret police recently broke it up.

Thus the Germans are worried about success of the Communist counterespionage. And they also have to combat a certain naive optimism of East German middle class leaders that the Russians will shortly fold tents and just go away. It's not surprising then, facing such difficulties, to find the Germans trying to put the bite on their Allied friends.

FEW people know about my career on the stage. Even fewer people want to know. However, I make no secret of the fact that I once trod the boards with Arngrim and Baker, although Arngrim and Baker often implore me to make a secret of it.

I have a rich store of theatrical anecdotes, all of which run something like this:

"Yes, I remember one time when I was appearing with Arngrim and Baker in a thing called . . . oh, what was that play? I'll think of it in a minute . . . Anyway, Stu and Thor and I were playing the old . . . now what was the name of that theatre?"

The fact is, of course, that I remember the name of the theatre perfectly well. It was the UBC auditorium. My recollection of the play is also unclouded. The play was "Antigone," which by a curious coincidence is at the Totem this week.

Some years ago my wife and I enrolled at the Summer School of the Theatre and were cast for roles in a play directed by Robert Gill. My wife played the queen—a part that taxed the fingers, but not the voice. Peggy had to knit silently for five minutes, then walk off. She was never seen again—on the stage, that is.

As for me, I was the second guard. During this week's performance of "Antigone" I flashed a veteran's shrewd, appraising glance at Jack Droy, who was playing my old part. He shows promise. Droy really throws himself into the part—a difficult feat in itself, since there are only two spoken lines in it. If he doesn't watch out, he is in danger of throwing himself clear through the part and into the audience.

Peggy and I both agreed that Daphne Goldrick in the role of Queen Eurydice tended to her knitting with great skill. I don't think the audience appreciated how well she did. Casting purls before swine, I call it. As a matter of fact, I have confidential information that talent scouts from a couple of sweater pattern books have their eyes on her.

I nearly forgot—when they put on the play at UBC, Arngrim and Baker were in it too. Thor had the part which he still plays this week.

Any actor who can appear in a play with the Mortimores, and in spite of that, fight his way back to public recognition, deserves your support. Incidentally, the play is a tragedy, and a good one. The only time it was played as a comedy was when my wife and I were in it.

Peggy had them all in stitches.

Victoria-type hanging flower baskets may appear in Chicago. The Canadian consul-general in Chicago wrote to our mayor, seeking knowledge of this city's lamp-post vegetation.

He was asking on behalf of a group of Michigan Boulevard people—Michigan Boulevard being the windy city's most fashionable street.

It hurts me to say this, but there is something incongruous about the idea of flower baskets on the lamp-posts of Chicago.

I tend to associate that big sinful town with caskets rather than baskets. When I think of Chicago, I think of the blooms lovingly placed on the coffins of such former citizens as Baby-face Nelson, Dutch Schultz, the Tullie brothers, Al Capone and associates, and Ma Baker's boys.

Chicago flower baskets may be used as targets for tommy-gun practice, or pulled down and worn as hats by early-morning revelers. Maintenance men will find little caches of morphine in them. Midget gunmen will use them as shooting blinds from which to pot passers-by.

Apparently our people are thinking of sending a sample Victoria flower basket to Chicago. I advise them not to do it. A bunch of tender young blossoms won't be safe in Chicago, unless a couple of cactus plants are sent along as escorts.

The police should step in and halt this dastardly scheme. Even a geranium has its rights.

All Quiet and Serene

Spirits Move Out Of Oak Bay Home

Ghostly houseguests at the Oak Bay home of Col. and Mrs. T. C. Evans have left for good, it seems.

The famed house, more than 100 years old and once owned by John Tod, colorful Hudson's Bay Co. trader, has had no recurrence of the spirit manifestations which made it a favored spot for psychic researchers.

PREDICTIONS FAIL

Their predictions that the ghostly happenings would return some day more violently than ever have failed to come true.

Col. Evans said Wednesday [illegible] house for several years.

"All those manifestations we used to get have seemingly disappeared," he said. He admitted that he sometimes missed the interest created by the "presences."

VARIED HAPPENINGS

Before, doors used to open, an antique rocking chair would rock violently and an ancient biscuit jar over the fireplace would start to swing.

Hats would fall from racks, though no hand touched them, a latch would lift and the door to a dark cellar would swing open. Once on Christmas Eve, the mysterious visitors threw decorations and wreaths in a heap on the floor.

HAD NO FEARS

Col. and Mrs. Evans, who bought the house and modernized it without changing its essential interior antique charm, were not afraid of the ghost they had inherited.

End of the manifestations may be explained by the discovery of a skeleton in the garden when workmen were excavating for an oil tank. The workmen refused to go on with the job after the bones were discovered and Col. Evans had to finish the work himself.

Many years ago the phenomena in the Tod home created interest all over the continent, bringing psychic investigators who predicted recurrences of the visits.

ALMOST FORGOTTEN

The mystery is almost forgotten now. When the famed Evans home was recently featured in an article in Better Homes and Gardens, the strange happenings of a few years ago were not even mentioned.

Pretty Cyclamens Hardy Flowers

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

When you look at the delicate and fragile flowers of the potted cyclamen in the windows of the florist shops, it is hard to realize that there are members of this ancient plant family which are perfectly hardy, and will not only display their lovely bossoms every year in our gardens, but will spread and naturalize themselves in our Island climate with all the ease of a drift of daffodils.

In fact, I know of one colony of the Neapolitan cyclamen, not far from Sandling Castle, in Kent, which is well over a hundred years old, and has never been lifted or moved in all that time.

These plants, cyclamen neapolitan, flower profusely for many weeks during each succeeding year, and following the flowers, the leaves are a real joy all winter, with their ivy-like shape and richly marbled coloring. The flowers, in different plants, may be bright pink, rose-crimson, or pure white.

Cyclamen coum, from one of the islands in the Eastern Mediterranean, bears a chubby little flower in cherry-red, rising from rounded leaves of dark, solid green. This little plant blooms in mid-winter, from December to March, and is one of the most charming of all the winter-flowering plants, the tiny blossoms like lamps gleaming in the depths of the dusky foliage, cheerful indeed on a winter day.

I understand there is a white form of cyclamen coum, with flowers as pure as driven snow, but it is very rare, and I have never been able to obtain seeds or roots of it.

GOOD LEAF SOIL

Hardy cyclamens enjoy a mixture of loam, and good leaf soil, with the liberal addition of ground limestone, or limestone chippings. Once planted and happily established, they are best treated to a little wholesome neglect. Year after year, without any attention at all, these little plants will spread and flower. The corms, rather like pieces of old weathered oak, become very large and yet do not lose their vitality, and they gather around an ever-increasing family of self-sown and lusty youngsters.

HAPPY ANYWHERE

The cyclamen tribe seem to be happy almost anywhere in the garden; nestling at the foot of a deciduous tree, in the rock garden, naturalized at the edge of a woodland copse or in a corner of the perennial border. It may be my imagination, but I have an idea that they have an affinity with the hardy ferns, and are never more lovely than when growing between them.

CURIOUS FEATURE

One curious feature of all Cyclamen, even the potted florist's specimens, is the seed capsule, which is always carried at the end of a stem coiled into a tiny spring. Incidently, the correct pronunciation is sick-la-men, not syke-la-men.

Britannia Lodge No. 216, LOBA, will hold their annual bazaar and tea Saturday, October 10, 2 p.m. in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company.

A PADRE IN PRINT

BY REV. WILLIAM HILLS

Canada, generally speaking, has been well served by her governors-general. Very few of them have had the obtuseness of mind to behave like transplanted Persian satraps to the discomfiture of the native born.

Some of them, like Byng of Vimy, have brightened up the somewhat stodgy pages of 20th-Century Canadian history by [illegible] democratic right to make up their own minds.

What would Mackenzie King, the Liberal party, and Bruce Hutchison have done without the political naivety of this blunt soldier? Perhaps the Canadian would not have been so incredible, the party not so indestructible, and the author not so easily provided with his recent triumph in letters.

If there had been no constitutional issue in 1926, perhaps the Conservatives would have been ruling the roost by 1953—with one of their ablest cabinet ministers hailing from Victoria — the Hon. Waldo Skillings.

But let us get back to the subject in hand.

* * *

Not all of Canada's commanders-in-chief have displayed such an open enthusiasm for their job as did Alexander of Tunis. He even sold Canada to Canadians so that they gave Rideau Hall to one of their own.

On the other hand, when Willingdon of Ratton came to these shores, he brought with him the indelible mark of the pro-consul. He had been viceroy of India, and Mrs. W. didn't like the change from the castle-filled society of that eastern empire to the uncertain "Who's Who" of Capitol Hill. But she did give the old mansion a going over.

Then came the Earl of Bessborough and his charming lady. He was a reluctant governor-general, who, being more of a dilettante than a ruler, was content to leave behind him, as his abiding memorial to Canada, the Dominion Drama Festival. No wonder we have been free from revolution!

Of the Athlones, let it be said, that they gave to the Canadian people, during the worst years of the war, the panoply of those domestic virtues and ideals of national service which were emanating from the heart of the Royal Family, itself. For this, we must be always grateful.

* * *

But none, I think, gave so much of his essential self to the Canadian people as did John Buchan.

What a remarkable man he was! I would have liked to have been a fly on the wall of the Middle Greek Class at Glasgow University some 58 years ago. The even then redoubtable Gilbert Murray had just finished his lecture, when a young man of 17 rose to ask why Bacon had quoted the Greek philosopher, Democritus, in Latin. It appeared that John Buchan—at that tender age—was editing Bacon's essays for a London publisher! I doubt if the modern 'teen ager has enough interest or even English to get through one Baconian essay, today.

Murray — whose friendship with Buchan started with that question and lasted throughout Lord Tweedsmuir's life — said this of him in 1945:

". . . no one knowing that clever and sensitive boy, in love with letters and Scottish legends and the memories of the countryside, would have expected for him a career of administration in South Africa, of the management of a great publishing firm, a seat in the House of Commons and then in the House of Lords, and finally a memorable record as governor-general of the Dominion of Canada."

I have just refreshed my mind with some things John Buchan said about democracy. One sentence he wrote is as contemporary as this issue of the Colonist.

"Lincoln fought to prevent Democracy making a fool of itself, and if that noble but most brittle type of policy is to be preserved to the world, we have not done with the fight."

I trust that we in Canada, with our self-conscious desire to be self sufficient in the matter of governors-general, do not make fools of ourselves in preferring native born mediocrity to Commonwealth brilliance imported 'though it may have to be.

Two Officials Of Association To Visit City

Gordon S. Shipp, president of the National House Builders' Association, and John Caulfield Smith, association secretary-manager, will visit Victoria on October 15 during the course of a nation-wide tour.

The two officials will be guests of honor at a meeting at the Monterey at 7.15 p.m. on October 15, arranged by the Victoria Contractors' Association.

F. A. Cook, secretary-treasurer of the local association, said Tuesday the Victoria Builders' Exchange and all other construction tradesmen are being invited to attend the meeting at the Monterey.

Donate $50 To Polio Fund

At the meeting of Xi Beta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, held at the Arts Centre, a donation of $50 was made to the polio fund.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, October 13, at the home of Mary Youson, 875 Richmond Road.

Procedure 'Regretted'

New Protest Lodged On Tests for Deer

Another complaint has come to City Hall regarding the parks committee plan to give two young deer to the UBC zoology department for diet and growth experiments.

Mrs. Marjorie E. Shaw of 460 Richmond road writes that it is "most regrettable that the parks board should have sanctioned this unusual procedure."

Warren said Wednesday the deer will probably be fed better than they are at Beacon Hill Park where they are given domestic food.

"The UBC department simply intends to feed the deer in a natural habitat on natural food and keep records of their growth," he said.

The young bucks from the Beacon Hill Park enclosure, are being donated on a request from I. McTaggart Cowan, head of the zoology department at UBC.

Officials of the city explain the deer originally were given on loan to the city from the B.C. Game Department.

Thirty Countries Submit Prints

Photography Salon Entries Already Ahead of '52 Total

Entries for the 13th Victoria International Salon of Photography have already surpassed the 1952 total and there are still ten days to go before entries close, salon director James A. McVie said Wednesday.

The salon will be presented in the library of the Empress Hotel November 15 to 22.

NUMEROUS PRINTS

Well over 1,000 prints have arrived for the salon from 30 countries of the world, Mr. McVie said, and many more are expected before October 17 when entries close.

Slides are also beginning to arrive, but no figures have yet been totaled on the number of countries entering, he added.

Local entries will not be known until a few days before the entry date, but many are expected.

The salon will be officially opened by E. G. Rowbotham, deputy minister of trade and industry at 2.30 p.m., November 15.

JUDGES LISTED

Judges of selection for the salon will be Percy Bently, Vancouver; Que Chin, Seattle, Washington; Ken McAllister, Victoria; C. P. V. Forrest, Victoria; Harold G. Robinson, Victoria and Chao-Chen Yang, Seattle.

Four special awards of gold plated sterling silver replicas of the anointing spoon used during the Coronation ceremony will be awarded the two prints and two slides judged the most outstanding of the show.

The Victoria organizing committee for the salon are Irvine Dawson, Evelyn Burt-Smith, Frank Sails, Jack Hawks and Harold Robinson, all of Victoria and Stanley Dakin of Nanaimo.

All communications concerning the salon should be directed to either James A. McVie, 2171 Bartlett Avenue, Victoria or Irvine Dawson, 680 Victoria Avenue, Victoria.

B.C. Fishery Agent Seeks British Trade

LONDON (Reuters)—K. F. Fraser, industrial representative of the British Columbia Fisheries Association, is now in the United Kingdom to encourage British manufacturers to export fishing equipment and supplies to British Columbia.

The fish canners and fish processing organizations he represents want to "buy British," he said Wednesday. One of the main aims of his high-pressure purchasing survey here was to help British producers to get back into the Canadian market.

"There are no strings attached to my mission," he said. "We intend to buy here as long as goods are competitive, but there is no question of any barter deals.

"I am on a privately-sponsored mission and we intend to re-open our historical trade relations with Britain in this field, regardless of what Britain chooses to buy from us in return with the dollars she earns. Our orders may top $4,000,000 as a result of this trip," he said.

He added, "Naturally, we realize trade is not normally a one-way affair and we hope Britain will step up purchasing from us. But this is just a hope and I make no conditions when I order from British firms."

A board of trade spokesman said there was no barter agreement, tacit or official, between the two governments on fish and fishing equipment.

Fraser's purchasing survey is the first that any British Columbia industry as a whole has made in Britain.

"I am finding out how we can increase purchases of those items we already buy from Britain. Also, I am seeing what we can buy from here that we now purchase elswhere," Fraser said.

"We are not going to pay a premium on British goods just for the sake of buying British. But we will 'buy British,' all things being equal."

Further stepping up of British imports of canned salmon from British Columbia would help relieve the canners of a heavy annual surplus with which they have been saddled in the last few years.

There was no information available on an Ottawa report that British Columbia timber firms expected to place large orders for timber equipment with United Kingdom manufacturers on the tacit understanding that in return Britain would buy more timber from them.

Still Seeking Highest-Level Talks

Eden Expected To State Churchill Aim

MARGATE, Eng. (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Eden will tell the Conservative party conference opening today that Sir Winston Churchill still seeks talks with Russia at the highest level, conference sources said Wednesday night.

Mr. Eden's address will be his first since he became ill six months ago. The sources said he will declare the prime minister's plans have the full support of the cabinet.

The theme of ending the East-West deadlock is expected to be discussed by Sir Winston himself in an address to the final conference session Saturday.

Lord Salisbury, acting foreign secretary during Mr. Eden's illness, will also speak to the conference today. Conference sources said he will answer reports that he failed to raise the issue of highest-level talks with Russia at the July conference of the three Western foreign ministers in Washington.

Sir Winston sounded the call for the meeting in a parliamentary address May 11 and has since plumped for them.

France claimed last week Salisbury failed to raise the issue in Washington.

The Conservatives, who have been in office just two years, were in a buoyant mood on the eve of the conference at this seaside resort.

Mr. Eden looked thinner but recovered from his illness as he arrived here with his wife. Sir Winston, who became ill from overwork last June, is back in fighting shape, according to latest reports. He will be 79 November 30.

Lack of Markets Worries Handlers

VANCOUVER (CP)—West Coast grain handlers expressed "alarm" Wednesday over the lack of world markets for Canadian wheat.

A spokesman for the Vancouver and New Westminster local of the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Softdrink and Distillery Workers of America (CIO-CCL) said 20 per cent of the local's grain workers have been laid off.

The spokesman said the layoffs were due to lack of world markets for Canadian wheat that was causing grain to pile up in Vancouver and New Westminster elevators. In New Westminster, 19 of 30 grain handlers employed by the Searle Grain Company were reported laid off.

The spokesman said other workers, such as longshoremen and trainmen are affected by falling wheat shipments.

The union, he said, will consult with other labor organizations to seek possible joint action in urging the federal government to step up its drive for new wheat markets.

Canadian wheat board officials in Vancouver declined to comment on the union statement.

France Backs Churchill Plan For Parley

PARIS (Reuters)—France has thrown her full support behind British Prime Minister Churchill's reported plan to fly to Moscow for personal talks with Soviet Premier Malenkov.

A spokesman for the French foreign minister said Wednesday night his government is in favor of any such proposal for easing East-West tension.

High diplomatic sources said earlier in London that the British prime minister is planning a Moscow trip if a top-level Big Four meeting, which he suggested last May, fails to materialize. They added that Churchill is still seeking such a Big Four meeting.

The French spokesman said France takes the same attitude toward a possible Churchill mission to Moscow as it does toward talks in London among the three Western powers on a reply to the latest Soviet note. The reply, he said, will probably be short and suggest a new date for a meeting of the four foreign ministers.

Russia's new note gave an evasive answer to the West's invitation to a foreign ministers' meeting at Lugano, Switzerland, October 15.

Dentist-Type Headrests May Kill Airsickness

TORONTO (CP)—Small headrests like those on dentists' chairs will all but eliminate sickness on aircraft under normal flight conditions, a top Canadian expert on airsickness said Wednesday.

Dr. Walter Johnson, chief of the motion sickness and disorientation department of the Canadian government's defence research medical laboratories here, said the headrests, weighing less than a pound each, will protect nine in 10 persons in normal flying weather—much more certain protection than that afforded by any pills.

He said the headrests' effectiveness was proven in a test by 600 paratroopers at Rivers, Man., in 1951. Government security regulations now have lifted to disclose the results, he said.

Half the men were given headrests—pieces of aluminum lined with sponge rubber manufactured for less than $1.

The rest were given non-effective sugar pills which they were told were the latest type of pill to prevent airsickness. This was to cut down on psychological factors influencing the test and increase the likelihood of results being due to the headrests alone.

Dr. Johnson said three times as many pill-swallowers as those with headrests were sick.

Search Party Finds Body Of Canadian

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian infantryman has led a search party into Korea's neutral zone to recover the body of a fallen comrade. He had disappeared on patrol 34 days before the truce was signed.

The body of Pte. Jean-Paul Monette, of Gracefield, Que., was recovered from a shallow grave apparently dug by the Chinese in what is today's neutral zone.

An army announcement said Pte. Joseph Henri Binette, of Ville Jacques Cartier, Que., led a party to the spot where Pte. Monette had fallen. The two soldiers, both members of the Royal 22nd Regiment, had been on patrol together June 22 when Pte. Monette fell.

Recovery of Pte. Monette's body brings to 256 the total of Canadian soldiers killed in action in Korea. He had been listed as missing in action, and the figure of those still missing is now 14.

Other casualties include 38 who died of wounds; 1,102 wounded in action; 101 injured in action and 32 returned prisoners of war. There have been 91 deaths due to non-battle causes.

Do As I Say, Police View

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fourteen-year-old Bruce Paget tells this story of football fever.

He and his chums were watching a game Saturday night through stadium fence knot holes. Four policemen chased them away.

"Later I saw the same policemen looking through the knot holes," said Bruce.

Though he missed the game, Bruce won two theatre tickets when he told his story in a newspaper "I Saw" contest.

Preserving Civil Rights

IN the last analysis, after parliament and legislatures have piled statute on statute and regulation on regulation as high as the Rockies, it is the courts which must interpret these rules and hold the balance fair between all members of society. Two decisions given in the Supreme Court of Canada this week in widely different cases may prove to be as humanly important as any official step taken in this country this year. Freedom of worship is still freedom of worship in Canada, nor is that liberty to be circumscribed. With the right guarded, good taste should dictate the rest—the fair and responsible use of this privilege.

Almost as far reaching in its own way was the other decision, one which upheld the property rights of a stockholder who came under pressure by reason of a stand he took alone. The highest court in Canada has now ruled that there are still some property rights which cannot be taken away without the consent of the individual. The ownership of shares was at stake in this instance, but the principle is among the most important of all civil rights. If the individual cannot be sure of his possessions under the law, if he has no rights which are inviolable, then what becomes of individual liberty? Happily the law stands, and the courts have the courage to say so.

These are testing times throughout the world. Encroachment on human freedom has been like a tide that slowly has been making on almost every strand. It is a welcome sign to see that in this country at any rate there are civil rights which remain above high water mark, which cannot be swept suddenly away. As men know, rights have their own responsibilities. To enjoy freedom fully and completely one must grant it; while no human right can long prevail that seeks to harm without cause the right, title or interest of another. That is where good sense and a personal regard for obligations become necessary. Freedom within the law is man's highest liberty.

Good Servant, Bad Master

IT was Carlyle who said that fire was the best of servants, but what a master! How true. It was fire which kept original life alive, which gave the heat that today in its varied form is necessary to the weal of mankind. Without fire there would be no sustenance, no comfort; yet fire can be one of man's worst enemies. When it becomes master, as in a major conflagration, the blessing has turned to tragedy.

This is Fire Prevention Week and people are asked to remember for their own good, the danger latent in fire on the loose. Special weeks there are in abundance, so many that one becomes inured to them to the point of indifference. So even with fire, or the means of fire, itself. Everyone grows up alongside a fire or its equivalent of some kind, in the kitchen grate or modern stove, in the open hearth in the living room, in the garden incinerator, in the flame of a cigarette lighter. So commonplace is a flame that it is taken for granted, until it gets out of hand. Then only is its potential danger called seriously to mind.

That is what the annual message of Fire Prevention Week is coined for, to remind individuals and especially home owners that this handmaiden of daily life is a restive force never wholly controlled without strict precautions. At the least sign of human carelessness it threatens to break out in violence. And people are careless. Chimneys, switches, furnaces, lighting and heating systems too often go uninspected, burning tobacco and lighted matches too often are cast idly aside.

On the advent of winter the risks of fire are much greater, with furnaces and lighting systems being pressed into use in increased volume. Now is the time for a thorough house check, to make sure that fire, the best of servants, does not unexpectedly and drastically become the unwelcome master.

A Posthumous Award

THE posthumous award of the George Cross to David Broadfoot, wireless officer of the steamer Princess Victoria when she went down in the Irish Sea in January, adds one more name to gallant company. The highest civilian award, the George Cross is given sparingly and only for unquestioned self-sacrifice. The late David Broadfoot stayed in the wireless cabin pounding out the SOS signal as the steamer sank, literally the last hope of rescue for all on board. The official citation, gazetted in London this week, read as follows:

"Thinking only of saving the lives of passengers and crew, Radio Officer Broadfoot remained in the radio cabin though he must have known that if he did this he had no chance of surviving."

The words are easily written, but what must the accomplishment have meant? The storm-tossed steamer was in a helpless plight. The order to abandon ship had been given. Every ship's officer or crew member was free to clear the wreck if he could, before the final plunge would suck ship and complement down to the bottom. Every man aboard knew that. Mr. Broadfoot elected to stay at his key, sending out the last call for help possible in any form.

Tales of courage at sea are not a new thing. Life under the Red Duster has been a sturdy, a man's challenge through long and varied maritime history. Here was man in the modern mode living up to the rugged, unswerving code of the past. In a sense Mr. Broadfoot typified something that is perhaps without period or time in British seafaring annals, the clean courage of a man who has a duty to do and who will lay down his life if necessary to see it properly carried out. A nation honors itself in honoring such a deed, unfortunately posthumously.

NONE INCURABLE

Sir,—In your issue of October 3 was an item headed "Essondale Charge Answered," the context of which related to the reading by the Honorable Minister of Labor of a letter from the Honorable Provincial Secretary to myself, showing the number of patients per doctor at Essondale, ranging from 17 to 564.

Actually the letter was the basis of the statement made by myself that "some doctors could only give an average of 15 minutes per patient per month," which is confirmed by the following figures, quoted from the aforementioned letter:

Ten doctors have from 17 to 97 patients under their attention; nine have from 101 to 564. The top six averaged 422 patients. Assuming the doctor was actually on the ward for five hours per day, this, over the year, theoretically allows 15 minutes a patient per month.

Admittedly, these are designated "chronic" patients whom, I contend, have little hope of recovery unless much more time is given them individually by adequately trained psychiatrists, psychologists and other essential staff personnel.

Generally speaking, we must never accept the attitude that any "chronic" patient is incurable; to do so would be poor psychology, and poor medical practice.

THE POINT SYSTEM

Sir,—What seems to be an efficient remedy to the weakness in the method of counting the ballots would be the adoption of the alternative voting point system. In such a system, the elector votes in the same manner as with the alternative vote but the systems differ in the method of valuing and counting the ballots at the close of the poll. A similar method of voting has been used by the Associated Press polls for many years to conduct the vote among sports writers to decide the best baseball and football teams and also to select various athletes for all-star teams.

The point system gives the support of each ballot to every candidate contesting the election according to the manner in which the ballot has been marked. There is no arbitrary elimination of a candidate during the count. In valuing the ballot the number of points allowed for each choice is determined by the number of candidates contesting the election. With eight candidates, the first choice would have a value of eight points; with five candidates, the first choice would have a value of five points, and so on.

The superiority of this method of counting is very obvious and its simplicity is such that the deputy returning officer in each poll throughout the province could complete the count in almost the same time required in the single transferable vote, resulting in no undue delay in obtaining the final results of the voting on the evening of the election.

On the completion of his count, he reports to the returning officer the number of points received, instead of the number of votes cast, for each candidate. The candidate receiving the greatest number of points in the electoral district is declared elected.

DOG RUN DOWN

Sir,—Our home lost a loyal little friend when our Boston bulldog was run over and killed by a speeding car at 7.30 a.m., Monday last, on the Metchosin Road.

Will you excuse my opinion of the driver who hit and ran; courtesy must come hard to him. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the young man who followed on an autocycle. He stopped, removed the dog's body to the side of the road and went to our neighbor and enquired for the owner.

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

GREGORY Peck is tall and lean; Lawrence of Arabia was lean too but he was short in height. Movie actors cannot be the doubles of the men they portray, very seldom anyway, but unless they can disguise themselves behind a beard they are apt, unfortunately, to be too much themselves.

In every part.

I will go to see this movie reconstruction of the Arab revolt, but I fear it will be hard to look at Peck and think of him as Lawrence. Not that this should affect the box office, since a host of present-day moviegoers probably don't know Lawrence.

It is perhaps surprising the movie industry hasn't leaped on the Lawrence story before this. They couldn't do it while he was alive, not a cent would he take because of the fame that came to him in Arabia, but he has been dead now, killed in a motorcycle accident, some 18 years.

* * *

A strange figure, Lawrence, an authentic genius. Read his book if you haven't already done so, "Seven Pillars of Wisdom," one of the great works of this century in my humble judgment.

You will have to look elsewhere, however, for his biography, for the story of how this slender archaeologist became one of the great fighting captains, how he outdid the Arabs at their own feats, how when full of honors and with the world at his feet he hid himself in the ranks of first the air force and then the tank corps, only to be betrayed for 30 pieces of gold. And how he got back into the air force and served out his time as an obscure aircraftsman, too brilliant by far for the comfort of his superiors but healing a mind split asunder by war.

* * *

Doubtless the projected film will take its substance mainly from "Seven Pillars." The story is a saga, of heroic men and great aims, peopled by characters out of the Arabian Nights, and told in prose of fascinating quality. In a preface Lawrence, or Shaw as he than had become, says: "I was fighting for my hand, upon my own midden."

But what a midden!

* * *

A selfless man. He says in an epilogue: "We took Damascus, and I feared. More than three arbitrary days would have quickened in me a root of authority." No wonder then he can say of the un-named rank and file: "Who miss their share of credit, as they must do, until they can write the dispatches."

What a role this is for Gregory Peck, the biggest challenge I should think of his whole career. My only hope is that Lawrence isn't given the usual Hollywood slick treatment.

There is fine scope for lesser players too. The one for instance who enacts the fabulous Bedouin chieftain, Auda abu Tayi, 28 times a husband, 13 times wounded in battle, the slayer of 75 Arabs and countless Turks, who viewed life as an epic and was as simple as he was hard-headed.

And Auda is but one of a dozen unique desert warriors who fill the pages of "Seven Pillars."

One scene will test the sincerity of the movie making, that wherein Lawrence, posing as a Circassian behind Turkish lines, is flogged unmercifully by Turkish guards: "They soon conquered my determination not to cry, but while my will ruled my lips I used only Arabic and before the end a merciful sickness choked my utterance."

Lawrence, slight and sensitive, was nevertheless made of iron.

Reports from Ottawa

Gerald Waring

THE government's decision to "empower" the banks to lend money on home mortgages is so commendable from the standpoint of public interest that it may seem surprising it wasn't done long ago.

One reason is that the banks aren't eager to get into this branch of lending. They think in terms of the cost and bother of setting up mortgage departments and training staff when they can earn as much interest more easily by putting their money into other investments.

So heretofore the government has sought to encourage the flow of mortgage funds from other sources, mainly insurance companies. But the flow has failed to keep pace with requirements, despite Works Minister Winters' pressure on the lending institutions. Now additional new money must be provided or the public interest will suffer.

Prime Minister St. Laurent is opposed on principle to state financial participation in housing, and ruled out direct government lending. That left only the banks as sources of the mortgage money the government's housing experts calculated would be needed.

* * *

When the directors of Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. recommended to the PM that legislation be passed by Parliament to allow the banks into the mortgage field, they anticipated the banks wouldn't welcome the move. But, as one CMHC director told me, they also believed circumstances could be so managed as to beat down the objections of the innately conservative bankers.

Usually announcement of the government's legislative plans for Parliament is reserved for the Throne Speech. The PM's announcement of the new mortgage legislation now is almost obviously designed to build up public opinion against the bankers' resistance.

The legislation will be permissive in that it won't require banks to lend on mortgages. But being commercial institutions with services to sell, the banks depend on the good will of the public. And as the government's experts have it doped out, few bankers can afford to stand against public demand for mortgages.

The government's new plans to encourage housing construction include boosting the ceilings on National Housing Act loans (from the present $10,000 to perhaps $12,000 or $12,500), reducing down payments (now about 20 per cent, compared with 10 per cent in the U.S.), and stretching out the loan repayment period (now 20 years maximum, compared with 30 in the U.S.).

* * *

In view of these more advantageous terms the PM has promised, there likely will be a sharp upswing in mortgage applications. Since prospective borrowers now know the government wants the banks to lend money on mortgages, public opinion will force the banks into the business. Or at least such is the reasoning of the CMHC directors who advised the government on the new policy.

The government, on the other hand, is doing its best to sweeten the deal for the banks. It is arranging for CMHC to insure the mortgages. It is also putting such mortgages in the class of gilt-edged government bonds by making them collateral acceptable to the Bank of Canada for loans to chartered banks.

Not that the banks need to go to the central bank often these days to borrow money—but the move should reassure the risk-conscious banking fraternity.

Uroporphurins?

(From The Ottawa Journal)

UNDER the authority of Trade Minister Howe, the National Research Council has published its annual report for 1952-53. The report says that new research buildings are either built or under construction, that many new projects are under study and that research in Canada is in a healthy state. Much time and study is being given by the National Research Council to practical problems confronting Canadian industry. This is all to the good. The report in parts is far beyond the comprehension of the layman. It abounds in such sentences as this:

"Kinetic studies of reactions in solutions on the hydrolysis of benzalanilines and diazoacetic ester have been completed and similar studies on the reactions of the benzenesulphonic esters are being published."

Another sentence runs:

"An investigation has been started into the structure and synthesis of the uroporphurins."

These bits taken haphazard from text are by no means the most complex sentences of the report, but represent a fair general average. Except for the scientist, the report might almost as well be published in Sanskrit.

A man entered his favorite restaurant and his order was taken by an obviously new waitress. As the girl was about to place the soup on the table it slipped from her hand and landed in the man's lap. For a moment they were both speechless, then, the waitress said, "Don't blame me; it's your own fault."

"Why is it my fault if you're so clumsy?" the man asked irately.

"Well, you shouldn't have ordered soup," she retorted, "you saw I was nervous."

On the Record . . .

The Right Not to Listen

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

LAST week the UN command in Korea, via Brig. Gen. A. L. Hamblen to Lieut. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the neutral commission, protested a letter distributed to prisoners by the neutral nations repatriation commission which guaranteed the captives freedom to return to their homes. The protest, in effect, accuses this commission of rigging its instructions to the prisoners in favor of repatriation, and of informing them that they "absolutely and of necessity are required to attend the explanatory work" provided for in the armistice.

This column repeats its comments of June 12 on the truce agreement as it concerns prisoners of war. The agreement itself is rigged in favor of repatriation. Prisoners who resist are, by this agreement, deprived of the right to have a country. Their status is reduced to that of wards and refugees.

The agreement specifically enjoins the neutral nations repatriation commission to protect access to the prisoners of "explanatory teams" whose business is to "inform them of any matters relating to their return to their homelands."

The neutral commission's letter to the prisoners is therefore in full accord with the armistice agreement. The agreement was an atrocity, which apparently becomes revealed as such only when the process of putting it into operation begins.

* * *

That the function of the commission was to further repatriation is revealed in its title: "The Neutral Nations Repatriations Commission." No commission was needed for repatriation of the willing. They are automatically repatriated under the truce. If the commission were for the protection of the captives, it would have been so designated.

And it would never have been charged to admit brain-washing teams to captives.

The agreement left it to the commission to decide the number of hours during which the captives must listen to "explanations," in the 90-day period.

The last report, as I write, is that the explanations will be conducted for eight hours daily, six days a week, extended to seven in the final stage.

Under the truce terms the explaining representatives are allowed to bring with them the necessary personnel for wireless communications. This means, I take it, that the captives can continually be assaulted—with no way to turn off the radio. I submit that this is a torture designed to create a condition of feeble-mindedness.

* * *

We are not innocent of knowledge regarding how this brain-washing operates. Father Mark Tennien told how it was operated on him while he was a prisoner of the Chinese Communists. Father Tennien has a strong mind and faith, but it almost drove him witless.

The crowning Communist triumph was to associate representatives of humane peoples with this psychological torture—Swiss, Swedes, Indians, and, of course, the UN forces. No "force" may be used on prisoners, and members of the commission must see that prisoners are not beaten, only subjected to the constant drip, drip of words on the brain centres—a lobotomy performed without surgery, and also without anaesthesia. Reports predict that "photographs or recordings of the meetings . . . will not be permitted."

Keep it dark.

How can a Swiss co-operate with this atrocity? I appeal to the Swiss in the name of Henri Durant, the founder of the Red Cross, who could not even imagine this form of abuse of captives. Or a Swede? I appeal to Swedes in the name of the great Scandinavian, Nansen. Or an Indian? What would Mahatma Gandhi say?

The prisoners have evoked a new right of man: the right not to listen. It is epoch-making! Humane states of the next age may find it necessary to write it into their constitutions: the right to turn off the radio, shut off the television, walk away from the button-holer, throw out the salesman.

The human objects of the word-drip treatment cannot walk out. They are captives. Imagine yourself shut up for 90 days with a super-salesman, who would only stop talking when you were "sold."

Won't somebody start a campaign to fly earplugs to Korean prisoners?

Graduates' Failings Discussed by UBC President

Complaint that university graduates cannot write or speak "with adequate facility" is too widespread to be treated lightly, according to Dr. Norman MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia.

"And yet when this complaint is passed, on to the various [illegible] there is a tendency on their part to regard training in the use of language as the exclusive responsibility of the department of English within the Faculty of Arts and Science," he stated.

In his annual report for 1951-52, released for publication within the past week, Dr. MacKenzie declared that all faculties of the university must share the responsibility "for seeing to it that their students not only know something about the subjects they are studying but that they are also capable of expressing what they know."

Departments of English, he said, should not be held more responsible than all other departments, schools and faculties in the university for the study of English as the language of instruction.

He stated that departments of English cannot take away, or carry, for a professor of engineering, or physics, or psychology, the responsibility for seeing that their students "are able to communicate their knowledge with facility."

"Until this responsibility is understood and accepted by every department, school and faculty, our universities will not be in a position to meet and answer the complaints (even though these are often exaggerated) of those who suffer from the inability of some of our graduates to communicate their special knowledge with facility," he said.

Dr. MacKenzie stated also that there has been "much controversy about whether high schools are properly equipping students for university entrance."

"It is, I think, true that a great many students come to university inadequately prepared," he stated. "The reasons for this, however, are much more complex than most critics of the school system seem prepared to realize."

STEM FROM TASK

"The reasons stem from the total educational task we are all faced with," he explained. "Canadian society has demanded that all members of society should be educated formally as far as possible. Further, they are to be educated primarily for 'participant citizenship.'

"These two objectives, though I share them with the vast majority of Canadians, are much more costly in money and personnel than we seem prepared to recognize, let alone provides for," he continued.

Education on this broad basis, he said, calls for further provision for vocational education, education for citizenship, and education for higher education.

"This would, of course, involve further outlays of money for the different types of school required and it would also involve attracting more highly qualified teachers to the educational system," he explained.

"It is time that the universities, the departments of education, the Canadian Educational Association, the Canadian Teachers' Federation and the Canadian Associations of School Trustees came together to discuss their joint and several responsibilities, rather than have each of them accusing one or more of the others," he asserted. "The total educational job is a most difficult and complex one and it cannot be tackled effectively except by collaboration and in co-operation."

As long as students have intellectual curiosity and a desire to find out more about their own capabilities and range of interests, it is not a waste of time for them to attend university without a clear-cut vocational objective, stated Dr. MacKenzie.

"Sometimes I am inclined to believe that we approach the matter of vocational interest almost in reverse," he said. "By that I mean that very frequently young boys and girls become interested in a particular profession because of romantic literature that they had read or movies they have seen about that profession."

"I have seen too many young men and women come to the university with the fixed idea of becoming a doctor, a lawyer, or an engineer, and I have seen them struggle to qualify for entrance to these professions and I have seen them defeated not because of any lack of ability, but simply because they did not know enough about where their real interest lay, and did not spend a year or two in exploring their own potentialities in terms of the university's subject offerings," he stated.

Committal Made On Drug Charge

Denis Charles O'Brien, 713 Pembroke, was committed for trial on a charge of possession of narcotics by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court Wednesday morning.

Jointly charged with O'Brien, 18-year-old Lenore Watson, of Vancouver, was sentenced to six months in prison and a fine of $200 when she pleaded guilty.

Charges were laid after the two had been apprehended by RCMP and city detectives at 2531 Government early on the morning of September 26.

FREE ON BAIL

At the time of his arrest O'Brien was free on $5,000 bail after pleading not guilty to possession of 100 capsules of heroine allegedly taken from him by RCMP officers on September 6.

Sergeant Reginald Whittaker, RCMP, told court Wednesday he found eight complete capsules and three half capsules in a room rented by O'Brien and Miss Watson at a rooming house.

Hazel V. Hathaway, 2531 Government, landlady of the house, testified she had rented a ground floor room to the couple in the name of Mr. and Mrs. Cooper on September 6.

She said on the evening of September 25 while she was in a bathroom shared by tenants on the first floor she found what looked like an eye dropper with a needle attached lying wrapped in tissue and wax paper on the floor.

NOTIFIED POLICE

After examination of the instrument she called city police and Detective Walter Andrews and Deans Blackstock attended. She showed them what she had found and they left, returning shortly after with Sgt. Whittaker of the RCMP, she said.

Sgt. Whittaker told the court he returned the paraphernalia, which he described as a drug addict's kit, to the floor of the bathroom, and with assistance from the city detectives set up a watch in the house.

A peep-hole was made through a door of an adjoining suite, he said, so when Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, or as he knew them, O'Brien and Watson, returned, their actions could be observed.

But before they returned he and Detective Blackstock made a search of the room they were living in and found a rubber finger stall containing capsules tacked to the back of a dresser drawer in the room.

The capsules were not touched and the three officers sat down to wait, he said.

When O'Brien and Watson returned the sergeant said he saw O'Brien go to the dresser, open the drawer, but could not see what he was doing because he had his back turned.

Miss Watson was sitting at the table eating a hamburger, O'Brien moved from his vision, and a few minutes later Miss Watson got up from the table and left the room.

The two people left the building together and a second search of the room was made. This time Sgt. Whittaker said he took the finger stall from the back of the drawer and found it to contain the capsules, empty but with traces of powder in them.

The drawer, finger stall and capsules were all submitted as evidence.

A search of the bathroom showed the needle to be missing after the two had left, he said. This equipment was never seen again, Sgt. Whittaker added.

The police officers then drove to 713 Pembroke where they knew O'Brien to live, and on the way saw him driving a car north on Government.

FOLLOWED CAR

They followed the car to 2531 Government where Miss Watson got out and entered the house. As O'Brien pulled away the police car intercepted him and Sgt. Whittaker went in the house and found the girl standing in the middle of the room in the dark.

O'Brien was apprehended by Detective Blackstock and the two were taken to the city police station and locked up.

Defense counsel W. A. Brethour cross-examined the witnesses in detail after their testimony.

Council for the Crown was George Gregory.

Dr. E. L. McNiven testified that he examined O'Brien after his arrest and found him to be under the influence of a narcotic.

"I find the evidence sufficient to commit and this will be dealt with as an indictable offense," Magistrate H. C. Hall said. "You are committed for trial."

What others are saying—

Donnell Culpepper, Long Beach (Calif.) Press-Bulletin: "Buttle Lake . . . is nestled in almost the centre of Vancouver Island. Half of it lies in Strathcona Park, set aside by the [illegible] government for public use. That part is beautiful beyond description. Untouched by loggers and lumbering interests, its great, dense wilderness defies man. Wildlife is there in abundance. The other half is outside the park. Most of its steep slopes are a picture of utter devastation, a questionable tribute to the lumber-hungry operators who have spoiled so much of this continent's gigantic timbered areas. Even now, men who call themselves progressive moderns are hard at work trying to obtain what is left of Buttle Lake's green slopes. Under the guise of making hydro-electric power by damming . . ."

Royal Brougham, Seattle Post-Intelligencer: "Civilization vs. wild life . . . the fish in the streams, the deer and the pheasant always lose. Even in the face of the inevitable, sportsmen of the state who have fought to preserve and perpetuate such a priceless heritage as our scrappy and tasty salmon are feeling pretty low today.

The lawyers and the jurists wiped out millions of the Northwest's famous fighting salmon with a stroke of the pen when they approved Tacoma's power dam in the Cowlitz River.

What does the future of a great, healthful, exhilarating sport mean to a lawyer? What does it matter if the small boys of today are deprived of the thrills which have so delighted their forebears? The next generation can read about the fighting 40-pound kings in books.

Choking off a great salmon run in the Cowlitz will be followed by other, bigger and more destructive dams. Harbors and river mouths will still be polluted by pulp mills and city sewage, killing millions more game fish. This is a great fisherman's paradise, wasn't it?

John Carmichael, Chicago News: "The world series is 50 years old and looks it."

Don Fleming, Edmonton Journal: "Ducey (John Ducey, general manager of the baseball Eskimos) would not go along with the suggestion that most of the weeping and wailing was instigated by officials of most of the clubs concerned. He blamed press and radio outlets around the wheel for indulging in rumormongering throughout the summer and engendering a widespread belief that the Class 'A' (WIL) league was insecure.

"'Actually, the case is just the reverse,' growled the Rajah of Renfrew Street. 'The Western International League would appear to be on the threshold of its greatest season. Certainly the picture in most of the cities defies the would-be alarmists.'

"The Rabid Rajah volunteered to size up the league's prospects which are presented forthwith: Victoria owes no money anywhere; refinancing and reorganization have the club on a solid basis . . ."

Joe Williams, New York World-Telegram and Sun: "They are talking up Ezzard Charles as Marciano's next opponent. Charles, for all his inconsistencies, has the precise physical properties to beat the champion; he is a much more expert performer than LaStarza and is more rugged. I would make Charles 2-1 over Marciano but for one thing. He has no bottom for fighting. Not enough, anyway, to merit your full confidence. I never met a nicer fellow or got more pleasure in watching a big man box, but he has a gentle temperament that intrudes on his resolution and much too often conquers it entirely. Moreover, Charles, sensitive and intelligent, has a civilized distaste for violence . . ."

Furillo Boosts Hopes, Martin Douses Them

National League batting champion Carl Furillo raised the Dodger hopes and temporarily crushed Yankee fans when he clouted two-run homer in top of the ninth inning to tie the score at 3-3 in the sixth game of the world series at Yankee Stadium. But Furillo's dramatic home run off Allie Reynolds only delayed for a few minutes the Yankees' drive to a record fifth straight series. Furillo is shown trotting across home plate and being greeted by, left to right, Duke Snider, Billy Cox and Dodger bat boy.

It was a gala moment for the Yankees when Hank Bauer raced across home plate with the winning run that gave New York a 4-3 win over Brooklyn Dodgers Monday and its fifth consecutive world series. Bauer, who was camped on second base, came around when scrappy second baseman Billy Martin singled through the box in the bottom of the ninth inning. Here, an overjoyed Gil McDougald (right, foreground) jumps in the air while coach Frank Crosetti races in behind Bauer. In contrast, Dodger catcher Roy Campanella (left, foreground) walks slowly away.—(International Soundphoto.)

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — A shot that missed the net proved to be the winning goal Wednesday night as Vancouver Canucks nipped the New Westminster Royals 3-2 for their second Western Hockey League win in as many nights.

The goal that wasn't a goal came late in the third period when Canucks' Bill Wylie swooped in on the Royals' net but was tripped by defenseman Ron Matthews just as he drew a head on the open net.

The puck rolled past the goal post, but referee Lou Feraldi ruled that it was an automatic goal.

Vancouver held a 2-1 lead at the time on goals by Art Stone in the first period and Andy Baihgate in the second. Gordie Fashoway had scored for Royals at the 19.01 mark of the first period.

Fashoway drew Royals to within one goal at 18.45 of the third after coach Alex Shibicky pulled goalie Lucien Dechene out of the net.

WORSLEY GOOD

Lorne "Gump" Worsley played another brilliant game in the nets for Vancouver, pulling off some spectacular stops when the Canuck defense was beaten.

The Vancouver forwards flashed more speed than the heavier Royals, the top line of Frank and Andy Baihgate and Larry Popein showing up best.

Only 15 Cage Entries; Kins Still Undecided

The Victoria and District Basketball Association, struggling to re-establish the sport in the city after several lean years, received only 15 entries—one for the two senior men's divisions when the deadline closed Saturday night.

Victoria senior "A" men's basketball team did not meet the team deadline and only one senior "B" men's league team entered, a drop of three from last season. Twenty-two teams entered the various divisions last season.

The newly-formed three-man basketball commission has called a meeting for next Thursday night at St. Louis College at 8 o'clock and all teams entered are requested to have a representative in attendance.

Meanwhile, Victoria Kins manager Pat Horgan said Wednesday night that the Kinsmen Club will hold a special meeting tonight to decide whether or not the organization will again sponsor Victoria's senior team.

The club hasn't had any workouts yet but most of last year's players have indicated a willingness to turn out for the club again this season. In addition, there is a possibility that Buzz Jacklin, who was named the outstanding player in the Vancouver Island High School tournament two years ago, may become a member of the Kins.

Jacklin, a former Victoria junior who moved to Nanaimo, has stated in a letter to Horgan that he would like to return to Victoria and play for the Kins if he can find suitable employment.

About the only concrete thing that Horgan said about the club is that it will be a "young man's ball team." But he feels certain that the Kins will return to action this season to defend the Vancouver Island championship.

He also stated that a definite decision as to whether the famed Harlem Globetrotters will appear here in November will be made next week and that attempts will be made to bring the Harlem Clowns to Victoria.

A reorganization meeting of the Kins will be held at St. Louis College Friday night at 7.30 o'clock. All last year's players and others interested are invited to attend.

Minor Hockey Players Sign at Arena Tuesday

The Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association will hold its first registration session of the season Tuesday afternoon at Memorial Arena between 3.30 and 5.30 p.m.

All boys who wish to play hockey in the five minor leagues this season must register, including those who were registered with the association last season. First ice time is expected to be available in about two weeks.

The association has tentatively scheduled "Minor Hockey Night" for February 15. That is the night when all-star teams from each of the five divisions go on display before the public in an effort to raise funds for the purchase of equipment.

Bill Davidson was elected president of the association at the annual meeting held recently. Laurie Perlette was named vice-president; W. S. Hall was returned as secretary and Jack Locke was elected treasurer. Others elected were J. McPherson, registrar; A. Green, equipment supervisor, and Jack Chesman, public relations.

Elected as president of each of the minor divisions were: Mike Happie, pee wees; L. Perleite, bantams; W. Large, midgets; J. McPherson, juveniles, and Rod Jensen, juniors.

Dressen Pays $100 Fine

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Ford Frick Wednesday fined manager Chuck Dressen of Brooklyn Dodgers and outfielder Ory Noren of New York Yankees $100 each for their part in incidents during the recent World Series.

Dressen was fined for arguing with plate umpire Art Gore in the fourth game at Ebbetts Field when the arbiter ruled that Phil Rizzuto, Yank shortstop, had tripped a third strike and not fanned, as Dodgers contended.

Noren will find his series cheque $100 lighter because, Frick said, he stood outside the Yankee dugout in the final game and waved a towel derisively at the official scorers after they had given the error sign on a ball that Billy Martin hit down to Junior Gilliam, Brooklyn second baseman, in the second inning.

Prize List Announced For Commercial Opener

A handsome prize list, topped by a 21-inch television set, will be offered by the Victoria Commercial Hockey League when the four-team circuit gets under way at Memorial Arena next Wednesday with two games.

President Doug Fletcher announced Wednesday that a man's or woman's made-to-measure suit will be the second prize, while a radio and pop-up toaster will be offered as third and fourth prizes, respectively. Opening ceremonies will be announced shortly.

Victoria V's, last season's Intermediate champions, meet Navy in the opener at 7.30 p.m. and defending champion Victoria Merchants take on Nanaimo, which is replacing Army, in the feature contest at 9 p.m.

All four teams are currently undergoing strenuous practice sessions, but team managers are still reluctant to release any kind of a lineup. However, Merchants appear to be just as strong as last season and will have two ex-Western Hockey League players in the lineup, Bernie Strongman and Joe Evans, both former Victoria Cougars.

Taximen Seek League Lead On Saturday

Defending champion C. & C. Vampires will be seeking to regain sole possession of first place in the Victoria Junior Canadian Football League Saturday at Heywood Avenue Park when they meet Navy in one of two scheduled week end games.

The taximen, who were edged out by Royal Roads 2-0 on Sunday, share the lead with the cadets by virtue of their 10-0 victory over Oak Bay Whitneys in the opening game of the season.

Oak Bay and Royal Roads provide the action on Monday at Heywood Avenue Park and Whitneys will be out for their first win of the season. They drew with Navy, 6-6, last Saturday.

Gladstone, Art Worth On WIL All-Star Team

VANCOUVER (CP) — At least eight, possibly 10 clubs will be in the Western International League when the 1954 baseball season opens next April, league president Bob Brown said Wednesday.

Brown made the statement when he announced the 1953 all-star teams, chosen by newspaper sports writers. He said that "contrary to reports" the league is not collapsing. Structure of the league for 1954 will be "definitely settled at the annual meeting of the circuit in Victoria on November 9."

Of the 14 men picked for the first team, Salem and Spokane led with three each. Edmonton, Yakima and Tri-City each had two. Vancouver and Victoria one. Shut out of the first-team selections were Wenatchee, Calgary and Lewiston.

Eighteen made the second team. Spokane placing five members aboard. Lewiston, Vancouver and Salem all had three named to the second string squad. Tri-City had two named and Edmonton and Wenatchee one each. Not represented were Yakima, Calgary and Victoria.

All told, the league champion Spokane Indians loaded eight members aboard the two teams with runners-up Salem Senators tagging six of the honor spots.

Openers Tonight In NHL

BY JIM BASTABLE

TORONTO (CP) — The National Hockey League, bucking big time football for sports-page space, starts another long season on two fronts tonight. It isn't worried about television, a big threat to the financial welfare of other sports.

The 210-game schedule opens at Montreal with Canadiens, featuring Jean Beliveau, against Chicago Black Hawks and at Detroit with the Red Wings—host to New York Rangers. For the second straight year, coaches and managers of the six-team circuit, usually voluble, have been almost quiet about their chances.

NEW GLAMOUR BOY

Big Jean, the glamour kid of Quebec hockey who had kept Canadiens dangling for three years before he signed a whopping five-year contract last Saturday, has stolen the pre-season headlines. Many figure the 22-year-old centre ice star will draw extra thousands into the arenas.

A few coaches have been willing to do a bit of forecasting, with reservations. Frank Boucher of New York Rangers, who got veteran Max Bentley of Destisle Sask., from Toronto Maple Leafs says:

"Barring unforeseen injuries, I'm confident we'll make our best showing in years. We're much improved over a year ago."

The Rangers finished in the cellar in the last two seasons.

Coach Lynn Patrick, who piloted Boston Bruins to the Stanley Cup finals last year and lost to Canadiens, comments:

"We have more depth than we've had since I've been with Bruins four years. Now we can replace skaters in every position. We couldn't do it last year due to an epidemic of severe injuries."

The entire league will be in action by Sunday night. The Leafs, with substantially the same team that ended in fifth place last season, meet Chicago in Toronto Saturday. The Bruins clash with Montreal in Boston Sunday for their first time.

With the exception of Beliveau, coach Dick Irwin is banking on practically the same 1952-53 club to carry the Canadiens' colors this season. However, the acquisition of Beliveau will add immeasurably to the Montreal scoring power where strength is needed most—down centre.

COUNT ON DUTCH

The Canadiens' chief opposition is expected to come from Detroit Red Wings, a hot team in the circuit for years. Among new men in the Detroit line-up is Earl "Dutch" Reibel, a stocky centre from Edmonton who led the Western Hockey League in point scoring last year. He appears certain to start between left-winger Ted Lindsay and right-winger Gordie Howe.

Boucher is determined to get the New Yorkers into contention. He says: "All depends on how my defense goes and if it doesn't show me plenty of fight and hustle I'll bring in Ivan Irwin from Vancouver and Jack Evans from Saskatoon. This year we've got the depth and nobody is going to stick around on his clippings."

League officials figure on increased attendance this season despite television. League president Clarence Campbell says: "I'm satisfied the league is better balanced than last season . . . TV broadcast of hockey games will not hurt the NHL at any time. TV is promotionally good for hockey."

Scotland Yard Solves Ringer Case; Five Men on Trial

LONDON (Reuters) — Five men were charged Wednesday with substituting a fast horse for a slow one in an attempted $100,000 Bath race track swindle last July and with a subsequent attempt to bribe a British peer to hamper Scotland Yard's investigations.

The prosecution claimed in court here the five men had set up a dummy bookmaking firm and painstakingly built up its connections until they were able to spread large bets safely with other bookmakers through Britain.

After a four-month build-up, said prosecutor Maxwell Turner, they stood to win $100,000 when their horse Santo Amaro, a ringer for the slower Francasal, romped home first at 10-to-1 odds in the opening race at Bath July 18.

Turner told the court he would prove they placed $10,000 in bets on "Francasal" then took the phone of their bookmaking establishment off the hook. Meanwhile a cut telephone cable at Bath barred their frantic contracting bookies from reaching the track to lay off the bets and bring down the 10-to-1 starting odds on the horse.

The five men are Gomer Charles, 46, a bookmaker; Maurice Williams, 47, registered owner of the two horses; Harry Kately, 42 bookmaker; William Rooke, 57, racehorse owner; and Robert Dill, 56, horse breeder. The case, prepared after an intensive Scotland Yard investigation, was adjourned until Friday after the prosecution's opening charge Wednesday.

Leonard Phillips, 31, a rag merchant, was convicted last month of cutting the telephone cable and sentenced to three months in jail.

Turner charged Wednesday that Charles had approached Lord Eliot, of the Earl of St. Germans, with an offer of $1,400 to interfere in the case. The peer, himself a bookmaker, was asked to pose as a member of the fashionable Jockey Club, controller of British flat racing, and press for speedy prosecution of Phillips by the Bath police, the prosecutor said.

Turner said Charles figured that "if the case against Phillips was disposed of at once, it would hamper the inquiries of Scotland Yard and therefore prevent the prosecution of anyone other than Phillips."

The lord said the prosecutor "very properly declined to have anything to do with the matter."

Bath track officials have withheld payment on the bets pending outcome of the trial.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker, seeking a record 400 victories in one year, brought home four winners at Golden Gate Fields Wednesday to boost his 1953 total to 373.

The Sportlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

On many occasions I have been asked to name the greatest pitching performance in any World Series I have looked at from 1905 to 1953.

This is a long parade. It leads from Christy Mathewson, Joe McGinnity and Chief Bender to Carl Erskine, Allie Reynolds, Billy Loes and Ed Lopat.

In between, along the line of the parade, there appeared such stars as Ed Walsh, Mordecai Brown, Bill Donovan, George Mullin, Howard Camnitz, Jack Coombs, Eddie Plank, Joe Wood, Rube Marquard, Dick Rudolph, George Tyler, Bill James, Grover Alexander, Babe Ruth, Herb Pennock, Lefty Gomez, Lefty Grove and, too many more to mention. All the great ones, including Walter Johnson.

* * *

But I must yield the laurel wreath, the olive bough, to the first one. I must name the work of Christy Mathewson in 1905 as the finest, by all odds, that I have ever seen.

Mathewson was a big, tall, broad-shouldered fellow who in that series had just reached his 25th birthday.

A graduate of Bucknell, he was easily the smartest ball-player I've ever known. He was the mixture of a scholar and a gentleman. He was a fine football player. A great pitcher. A fine chess and checker star. A good golfer, who scored in the 70's.

He had a keen, analytical brain, and that year as a pitcher he had blazing speed and perfect control of a baffling variety of curves, including the famous fadeaway.

It was the first time I had met Matty and, without any thought of boasting, I believe he had the most confidence in himself of all the pitchers I've seen.

Getting back to that 1905 series, he faced Eddie Plank of the Athletics on October 9 and shut him out, 3 to 0. He allowed, as I recall it, just four hits.

Three days later he faced Andy Coakley, a first-class opponent, and beat him, 9 to 0. Two days later, on October 14, he hooked up with Chief Bender, who had already shut out McGinnity, and Christy beat Bender, 2 to 0.

The Athletics made 14 hits off Matty in the three games. Only four of those hits went for doubles. You had the feeling watching him pitch those games that he could have gone on pitching shutouts until Christmas—or longer.

* * *

The Athletics were completely helpless. "I have never seen anything like it," Connie Mack told me once. "I had a pretty fair hitting team, at least we had won the American League pennant. But we were completely helpless in all three games."

I talked with Matty about this series years later.

"I was young then, 25, and strong. Few people seemed to know it, but I had as much speed as anyone I ever faced. I won eight games from the Pittsburgh team of 1903 that won the pennant the one with Hans Wagner, Fred Clarke, Tommy Leach and others. I hurt my arm in 1906 and I never reached that speed again. But I was fast in 1905."

He was everything in 1905. That series was the tops for great pitching. And the pitcher's name was Christy Mathewson.

Wins Cup Round

Miss Mary Prior won the second round of the Benning Cup competition at the Victoria Golf Club Wednesday by recording a 96-29-67. Mrs. H. G. Mearns was runner-up with a 79-6-73.

Third and final round of the competition will be played at the Oak Bay links next Tuesday.

LIVERPOOL (Reuters) — Liverpool, one of England's First Division soccer teams, beat the South African touring team 3-2 here Wednesday.

Lead Leagues

ED LOPAT

WARREN SPAHN

Ed Lopat, brilliant southpaw of New York Yankees who made one of baseball's strongest comebacks this season, and lefty Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves, won pitching honors in the American and National Leagues, respectively, this season. Lopat, who won 16 while losing only four and chalked up one world series victory, had the best winning percentage of .800 and allowed only 48 earned runs in 178 innings for a 2.34 earned-run average. Lopat is the first American League pitcher since 1943 to lead in both departments the same year. Spahn, one of the key men in surprising showing of Braves this year, allowed 62 earned runs in 266 innings for a mark of 2.10, the lowest since Howie Pollet compiled the same mark with St. Louis Cardinals in 1946.

Blues Score First Win On Two-Hitter

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Bob Ferris and Mel Wright combined their pitching talents Wednesday to allow Montreal only two hits as Kansas City won the fourth game of the little world series, 4-3. Montreal now holds a 3-1 series lead.

Ferris started for Kansas City and gave up only two hits, both of them to Rocky Nelson. However, he walked seven and his wildness brought in Wright in the sixth inning. Wright pulled out of the jam while letting in the third Montreal run on a wild pitch and then held the Royals without a hit the rest of the way.

Leading Yankee Hurler Even Better as Manager

BY FRED DOWN

NEW YORK (UP)—Ed Lopat puffed on a cigar, rested his feet on a desk and said he expected to remain undefeated as a manager for the second straight year.

"I've got quite a managerial record—never lost a game," the 35-year-old southpaw on the New York Yankees chuckled. "I figure to make it two straight years undefeated, too."

Casey Stengel, only manager ever to lead five consecutive world champions, glanced at the roster Lopat held in his hand and seemed inclined to agree.

"With the team you got you might be able to beat both the Dodgers and the Yankees and claim the championship of the universe," Stengel said.

Lopat's squad, which takes off on a tour that winds up with 18 games in Japan, probably would sweep through a regular American or National League 154-game schedule with 110 or 112 victories. Lopat, who led the AL with a 16-4 record and a 2.41 earned-run average this year, is one of the pitchers — but he doubts that he'll get into many games.

"I guess I'm the No. 5 man on the staff I got," he quipped.

Lopat's staff is headed by Robin Roberts, the Phillies' 23-game winner, and also includes Philadelphia's Curt Simmons (16-13) and Cleveland's Bob Lemon (21-15) and Mike Garcia (18-9).

That all-star staff is backed by an infield of Ed Robinson at first base, Yankee world series hero Billy Martin at second, rookie-of-the-year Harvey Kuenn at shortstop and Ed Mathews, Milwaukee's home-run-hitting sensation, at third.

His outfield consists of Enos Slaughter, veteran Cardinal great, Jackie Jensen of the Senators and Hank Sauer of the Cubs, National League's most valuable player in 1952. His catchers are Yogi Berra, who hit .429 in the series, and Gus Niarhos of the Red Sox. Nelson Fox is general utility man.

The squad plays its first game against an all-star team manged by Paul Richards of the White Sox in Colorado Springs Thursday night.

"I gotta laugh outta Richards," Lopat recalled. "He came to me and asked whether we ought to split the gate 60-40 instead of 50-50. I told him it was all right with me and he could name my pitchers in every game.

"Then he saw my team," Lopat went on, "and he decided to let the split remain at 50-50."

Lopat, who visited Japan last winter, said he expects "a truly wondrous trip."

"It's hard to believe," he said. "We draw crowds of more than 100,000 and the dugout swarms with 50 or more photographers every day. It's just like playing a world series game every day."

Notre Dame Still Holds Top Rating

Notre Dame was named the United States' top college football team for the second week in a row by the United Press board of coaches Tuesday, but Michigan State gained ground on the Irish.

Undefeated Notre Dame was the first-place choice of 27 members of the 35-man panel and had 332 out of a possible 350 points. Michigan State polled 291 points while UCLA and Ohio State held third and fourth places respectively.

Other members of the top 10 in order are: Maryland, Southern California, Michigan, Baylor, Georgia Tech and Duke.

Scottish Lead In Danger This Week End

Esquimalt and Civil Service will be seeking sole possession of first place in the Victoria and District Football Association when they meet Saturday at Windsor Park at 2.30 p.m.

A win for either club would put them into the lead one point in front of Canadian Scottish.

Scottish meet Victoria West Sunday at Bullen Park while Wood Motors play Heaneys at Lower Beacon Hill Park. Both games start at 2.30 p.m.

Tigers Start Bringing Up Younger Stars

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The youth movement of the American League's Detroit Tigers was given another prod Monday when the Tigers bought four players from their farm club, Buffalo Bisons of the International League.

The Bisons in turn bought six players from Detroit. The money involved was not disclosed.

Headed for Detroit are Frank Lary, right-handed pitcher; Clarence (Bud) Hicks, shortstop; Frank Bolling, second-baseman; and Jim Bunning, right-handed pitcher.

Golf--- Here's How

BY SAM SNEAD

Power, unless under absolute control doesn't pay off. Play every shot for placement. Pick out the spot on fairway or green, where you want your ball to come to rest. Then play a little private game with yourself to see how near you can come to placing the ball where you want it. You'll be surprised how quickly you acquire control. Never sacrifice accuracy to power in golf. The best shots with wood have a faint hook at the far end of the flight. This is due to the slight spin given the ball when you hit it, as you should, from slightly inside-out across the direction line. A ball so hit also receives just a bit of counter-clockwise spin. And so at the far end of its flight the spin causes the ball to hook gently and roll perhaps 10 controled yards farther than it would have gone without such spin. And that yardage can make a real difference in your score.

Report Says Lane Sought By Baltimore

CHICAGO (AP)—Frank Lane is seeking his release as general manager of Chicago White Sox to accept a top position with Baltimore Orioles, it was learned reliably Wednesday.

Lane would be handed free rein in running the new American League entry for a flattering salary and a chance to hold Oriole stock.

Clarence W. Miles, chairman of the Orioles' board of directors, Chuck Comiskey, White Sox vice-president, and Lane conferred here Tuesday ostensibly to brief Miles on major League operations.

The trio denied reports Baltimore wanted Lane to direct the former St. Louis Browns in that city and that Lane is trying to quit the Sox.

However, it is known the Comiskey clan is debating whether to release Lane from the final two years of his three-year contract.

Remember When:

New York Yankees went 10 innings to score a 7-4 victory over Cincinnati Reds, giving the Yankees the world series title in four straight games, 14 years ago today. The Yankees had DiMaggio, Keller and Selkirk in the outfield; Dahlgren, Gordon, Crosetti and Rolfe in the infield, Dickey catching and Hildebrand, Sundra and Murphy pitching. Walters was the losing pitcher, Murphy the winner.

Clubs Generous With Series Money— Yankees Get $8,280; Dodgers $6,178

NEW YORK (UP)— The champion New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers cut up the richest world series melon in baseball history Wednesday as each full winning share hit an all-time high of $8,280.68 and each full losing share was worth $6,178.42, another record.

Each club voted 29 full shares in splitting the total players' sum of $691,341.61, largest pool in world series history, thanks to the increased price of seats plus added revenue from radio and television receipts.

Each full Yankee share was $1,508.63 more than the previous largest winning share of $6,772.05 collected by the Cleveland Indians in the 1948 world series with the Boston Braves, while each Dodger share was $1,227.39 more than the previous high losing share of $4,951.03 picked up by the Giants after dropping the 1951 world series to the Yankees.

NOT FORGOTTEN

Both clubs remembered men who played with them earlier in the year but were not around for the pennant - clinching. Pitcher Ewell Blackwell, released by the Yankees in mid-season, was given half a share worth $4,140.34 while Ralph Branca, traded by the Dodgers to Detroit in June, was voted a quarter share of $1,544.61.

Infielder Gerry Coleman, who rejoined the Yankees in August, was given a one-third share of $2,760.21, the same sum voted to infielder Jim Brideweser and outfielder Art Schult, each of whom were with the club only part of the season.

Pitcher Irv Palica, who returned from the army in late July, was voted a quarter share by Brooklyn while Dodger pitcher Don Newcombe, in the service all season, was given a cash award of $500. The Yankees made no such provision for infielder Bobby Brown or pitcher Tom Morgan, who, like Newcombe, were in the army all year.

The Dodgers voted a three-quarter share, worth $4,633.81, to outfielder Dick Williams, acquired after the season started, and half shares of $3,089.22 to batboy Charles Digiovanna and clubhouse man John Griffin.

Willie Miranda obtained by the Yankees from the Browns during June, received a three-quarter share of $6,210.50, as did pitcher Bill Miller and clubhouse man Peter Sheehy.

OTHER CLUBS SHARE

Each of the second-place clubs in the two leagues, Cleveland in the American and Milwaukee in the National, will receive $51,850.62 to divide among its players. Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox, third and fourth, respectively, in the American League, will receive $34,567.08 and $17,283.54 for player distribution while Philadelphia and St. Louis Cardinals will split third and fourth place money as they wound up in a tie.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange was featured Wednesday by a broader demand for coarse grains for export.

Fairly aggressive buying appeared in oats and was attributed to American shipping interests. Seaboard houses bought flax, which also was taken by domestic processors. There were reports of further export sales of flax to the continent.

Rye and barley trade was quiet.

There was no information on overnight loadings of Canadian wheat.

Caustic Bengough Assails Bar For Advocating Ban on Strikes

Trades and Labor Congress president Percy Bengough Wednesday night swung back at the Canadian Bar Association.

The lawyers' association recently went on record as wanting strike action deleted from trade union power, he noted.

"The only organization that could go on strike without affecting the well-being of people is the lawyer's union," Mr. Bengough told Victoria District Trades and Labor Council.

DOING USEFUL JOB

"There isn't a TLC affiliate that is not doing a useful job. And they (the lawyers) want to hog-tie that," he continued.

"Lawyers don't have to negotiate. All they do is send a bill; and if you kick you go before another who has had a promotion. There's no arbitration." Mr. Bengough said.

"They have a crust," he added. "If they kick a guy out they take away his overalls, formally called de-robing. We never take a guy's overalls."

"If the right to cease work is taken from workers it puts a person in the category of slave labor, the same as in Slaughter House Jones' country."

NO NEED TO STRIKE

"If we had the same organization the lawyers had backed by the government, a closed shop we wouldn't need to strike," the TLC president said.

"I'm sure the government here will look after the problem if representation is made," he concluded by nodding towards Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

Mr. Bengough also spoke in favor of eventual full national social securities. He urged that now is the time to give shareholders more of the unemployment insurance funds, including payment for sickness time if illness strikes while a person is employed.

CAN BE EXTENDED

Legal authority has disclosed such benefits can be extended without infringing on provincial rights, he said. Mr. Bengough advised trade unionists to write members of parliament urging extension of the benefits.

National health insurance benefits could be operated by a stamp book system similar to insurance, thus helping free workers for jobs in any part of Canada.

Canadian labor legislation provincially and federally, is good compared to other countries, including the United States, he continued. "Ours is better than the Taft-Hartley law. Our job is to extend beneficial legislation."

WEAKNESS SHOWN

He felt, he said, that political affiliation "has never been a demonstration of strength, but of weakness." The TLC as a trade union centre meets governments on an equal footing through non-political affiliation.

He said that 25 organizers are in the field across the country, two being added in Quebec. Many industrial agreements there today compare favorably with others in Canada, he said.

DINNER GIVEN

Council officers attended a dinner in honor of Mr. Bengough. Mr. Wicks represented the government.

Improvement Reported

Overcrowded Beer Rooms, 'Short' Servings Found

Overcrowding and "short" servings were found under certain conditions in beer parlors of Greater Victoria, a special committee reported Wednesday to Victoria District Trades and Labor Council (TLC).

Committee chairman John Aubry reported that "beer parlors still are overcrowded on Saturdays and holidays, undoubtedly due to a lack of sufficient licensed outlets."

The committee noted that in busy periods less than the normal six ounces of beer was served.

IMPROVEMENT NOTED

It was found that, in the past nine weeks, cleanliness and control of drunkenness have improved. Waiters and other employees are efficient and well mannered, endeavoring to do their jobs as well as possible, the report said.

However, some premises have no absorbent coasters, resulting in drops from wet glasses spoiling a patron's clothing, it was reported.

The report was received and filed without debate from council delegates.

DREW ATTENTION

Mr. Aubry previously had been the centre of attention from the Beverage Dispensers' Union (TLC) for a comment that some beer parlors were like "hog troughs."

The committee's report was based on inspection of licensed premises.

Chicago Likes Basket Blooms

AROUND TOWN

Victoria's famed hanging flower baskets may soon bloom along Chicago's equally famed Michigan Boulevard.

Mayor Claude Harrison has received a query from the Canadian Consulate in Chicago on behalf of the Michigan Boulevard Association for details on the baskets. The association wants to know about materials used in manufacture, cost of upkeep, height from the street, and plants used.

They also like to buy a couple of samples of made-up baskets together with lamppost brackets and to pay for their shipment to Chicago.

Victoria's parks department has sent along a brochure containing all the details. An official added that the department would be quite prepared to send samples if the Chicago group want them.

BCE Asked To Assist On Benches

The city is negotiating with the B.C. Electric to provide benches at six downtown bus stops, or to assist with the cost if the city installs them.

The public works committee last week turned down a proposal by Mastercraft Agencies of Vancouver, who offered to put in benches and pay the city $150 per bench per month if they could carry advertising.

City Manager Cecil Wyatt has been instructed by the committee to try and interest the bus company in sharing the cost or placing the benches themselves.

COST $40 EACH

City Engineer Cyril Jones told the committee last week he estimated the benches would cost $40 apiece properly bolted down to the sidewalks.

"The only wear and tear, he said, might be a certain amount of vandalism as experienced with park benches.

Verdict Not Guilty In Traffic Fatality

Robert Gregory Allen was found not guilty of a charge of criminal negligence by an Assize Court jury Wednesday morning.

Gregory-Allen was charged after the death of Mrs. Eva Mitchell on February 25 when a car driven by H. G. Mills was in collision with a parked truck on Blenkinsop Road owned by the accused.

In his final remarks to the jury, Hugh Botterell, defense lawyer, said Gregory Allen had parked his truck as far as possible off the traveled portion of the road.

W. H. M. Haldane, QC, Crown counsel, contended that regardless of how far off the traveled portion of the road the truck had been parked it should have been equipped with warning lights.

The jury was out of the court room 35 minutes reaching a verdict.

Child Suffers Burns

PORT ALBERNI—Nine-year-old Dorothy Stevens is reported in satisfactory condition in West Coast General where she is being treated for serious burns to her hands and back.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Stevens, 105 Eighth Avenue South, ran several hundred feet with her clothing on fire and collapsed at the gate of her home.

She had been playing with other children around the embers of a neighbor's trash fire. The dying sparks were fanned into flames by the youngsters and burning papers ignited the back of Dorothy's clothing. Unaware that she was on fire, the child ran when she saw adults running toward her.

She clutched the gate as she fell unconscious and her father had difficulty pulling her hands away.

Dr. Chesley Pitts was called and the little girl was rushed to hospital.

Engineers Receive $1,000,000

The B.C. Power Commission has paid H. G. Acres & Co., consulting engineers of Niagara Falls, in excess of $1,000,000 between 1945 and 1953 for consultation, advice and supervision of various power developments constructed by the commission throughout the province.

This information was provided the legislature Wednesday by Premier W. A. C. Bennett in answer to a question placed on the order paper of the House by Rupert Haggen (CCF-Grand Forks-Greenwood).

PORT ALBERNI—Douglas E. Rispin was elected by acclamation in a by-election in Port Alberni to fill a vacancy on the school board of District 70.

Mr. Rispin will represent the city of Port Alberni, taking the place of Henry J. Salmon, who resigned last month.

Price Censures Ministers, Demands Bridge, Raps BISCO

Bert Price, the Socred rebel who last spring helped defeat his own government, proved Wednesday he still has a mind of his own by verbally slapping the faces of two cabinet ministers.

Mr. Price demanded the government get busy on a new Marpole bridge. "It's your bridge," he said to Public Works Minister Gaglardi. "What are you going to do about it?"

Then he challenged Health and Welfare Minister Martin's reference to his plan for rehabilitating young offenders at the Boys' Industrial School at Coquitlam.

"There is no plan," Mr. Price declared. "This school is being operated as a kindergarten to the penitentiary.

Reactions of the two ministers were poles apart. Mr. Gaglardi laughed heartily; Mr. Martin glowered, red-faced.

Mr. Price charged treatment methods at the boys' school are "entirely wrong" and "entirely inefficient." The only cure he said was to fire the administrative brass at BISCO.

OVERMANAGED

"Bisco is overmanaged," he said. "It has a superintendent, an assistant superintendent and a director of treatment. Differences of opinion existed between the three top brass so another was added to their ranks with the title of director of industrial schools."

He said the new treatment program which has been in effect at BISCO for two years has failed.

"The discipline that was upheld for many years . . . is gone," he said. "There is absolutely no respect for orders . . . Boys think nothing of swearing at the supervisors and social workers . . . and call them all the filthy names they can lay their tongues to. For this there is no punishment."

BEYOND IMAGINATION

"The way these boys are allowed to act within the school is almost beyond imagination," he said.

The minister has said they lead 'close to a normal life' . . . Everybody here appreciates the value of discipline in the home and will feel that a similar code of discipline should be produced within our industrial school.

"Yet in one week this year there were 108 broken windows . . .

"One group of boys . . . decided to tear all the plaster off the wall. The director of treatment asked the boys if they did not feel guilty and sorry and said now they would have to call the plasterer and have the plaster replaced and begged them to be more considerate in future.

"An hour later all the plaster was off the other wall."

"Is the honorable member recommending that we keep the boys in iron cages?" asked Anthony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie).

"Oh, sit down," shouted Mr. Price. "Of course I'm not recommending that. Do you keep your kids in iron cages? Do you let them tear the plaster off your walls?"

BISCO was charged with "security and rehabilitation of young offenders, he said, but there was no rehabilitation and little security. Boys were allowed to run away at will; in one month there were 67 escapes.

NOT AVERAGE BOYS

"These boys are not average boys," he said. "They are committed to this school as a last resort because society cannot afford to let them run wild. Every time they run away . . . they commit offences . . . they break into homes and stores and steal clothes. They steal money and invariably they steal a car."

BISCO staff members fear "someone is going to be seriously hurt or killed because of gang control within the school," he said.

CCF Move On Strike Stalled

A CCF attempt to force Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to appear before a house committee to explain what he is doing to settle the interior lumber strike was stalled in the legislature yesterday.

Robert M. Strachan (CCF-Cowichan-Newcastle) sponsored a resolution giving the legislature's labor committee power to call the labor minister and other labor department officials to account for their actions in regard to the strike.

Mr. Wicks adjourned the debate, delaying a vote on the resolution indefinitely.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner told the House a conciliation officer had been in the Prince George area for 10 days investigating the strike of 5,000 lumber workers.

He said the officer was returning to Victoria to report to Mr. Wicks. The government would then consider further action under the ICA Act.

Mr. Strachan said action by the labor committee was necessary to prove to organized labor that the legislature was concerned about the lumber strike.

"The Labor Relations Board, in the past year had given labor the impression it was 'withering,' he said. Formerly the board would have called management and labor together for further negotiations, he said.

Mr. Bonner said Mr. Strachan's charges were "not borne out by the facts."

Authority Not Given For Sale of Timber

The forester in charge of B.C.'s provincial parks Wednesday told a legislature committee that he had specifically told Gavin Mouat and members of the Mount Maxwell Park Board they had no jurisdiction over Mount Bruce Park on Salt Spring Island.

F. G. Oldham, chief of the Forest Service parks and recreation division, told the committee that several members of the Mount Maxwell board and Mr. Mouat had come to him individually to discuss the possibility of selling Mount Bruce timber.

He said he told them there was no record of authority over Mount Bruce being given to the Mount Maxwell board.

CONTRADICTION

Mr. Oldham's evidence directly contradicted that of Mr. Mouat who earlier had testified that Mr. Oldham had told him the Mount Maxwell board "very definitely have the right" to sell Mount Bruce timber.

Mr. Oldham, the first witness to testify under oath, told the committee that "in the early fall of 1950 I was approached by several members of the Mount Maxwell Park Board about the possibility of cutting timber in Mount Bruce Park.

"I advised them that as far as our records indicated they had no authority over Mount Bruce," he said.

LETTER ON FILE

A board member told him the board had on file a letter from a former lands minister giving them authority to administer Mount Bruce, he said.

"I said our records didn't substantiate that but it could be possible that the minister had given them such authority without our receiving a copy of his letter.

"One of the members asked me if the Forest Service would assist them in disposing of the timber in Mount Bruce.

"I told them no, the Forest Service would not be a party to any such venture," he said.

"The board indicated to me they would like to dispose of the timber to an individual on Salt Spring.

"I told them they would be leaving themselves open to criticism if they undertook such a course of action."

Later, he said, he had a similar conversation with Mr. Mouat, who also referred to a letter signed by a former minister giving the board control over Mount Bruce.

"I again informed Mr. Mouat, qualifying my statement however that if they had in their records a letter signed by the minister . . . then that would be the minister's prerogative and he was the only man who could appoint them (to control of Mount Bruce)," Mr. Oldham said.

He said he heard no more about the matter until some time later when he learned cutting of the timber had already started. "Wheels were put in motion to stop the timber deal," he said.

LETTER TURNED UP

Under questioning, Mr. Oldham said he eventually turned up a copy of the minister's letter. He found this pre-dated a 1942 amendment to the Forest Act, "therefore I felt it was applicable."

Earlier in Wednesday's hearings committee member Bruce Brown (Lib-Prince Rupert) accused civil servants who have appeared before the committee of giving "evasive answers." He said he had asked Chief Forester C. D. Orchard several questions which "were not answered in a straightforward manner."

Dr. Orchard said he had nothing to hide . . . but there are many questions that can't be answered honestly, yes or no".

Oak Bay Boys Confirmed Polio Victims

Two small Oak Bay boys, aged one and two years became Greater Victoria's 82nd and 83rd polio cases when they were admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday night.

The two children first admitted as suspects were pronounced "fairly definite" cases by health officials.

FIRST SINCE MONDAY

They are the first cases to be admitted since Monday when an eight-year-old Saanich girl went in, and the second since last Thursday.

The incidence has dropped from 18 in one week late last month to only three in a week. Officials hope the drop indicates a coming end to the outbreak.

Sect Land Bill Draws Protests

A bill to set up a commission to inquire into the resale of land to the Doukhobors was given second reading in the legislature Wednesday in spite of protests from some opposition members.

Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan) said the government, instead of merely authorizing an inquiry, should start selling back to the Doukhobors the lands it took over when the Doukhobors' Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood went bankrupt in 1938.

Bruce Brown (L, Prince Rupert) objected that "the time is not ripe." Doukhobors were being arrested in "wholesale lots," he said and "at the same time the government was proposing legislation which would benefit the Doukhobors. He feared the Sons of Freedom would infer that their nude parades, bombings and burnings had won them a victory.

OPINION DIVIDED

"The opinion of the opposition is badly divided," Attorney-General Robert Bonner observed. "One says go forward, the other says stand back."

Mr. Harding said a two-year-old report by the Doukhobor Research Committee gave the government nearly all the information it needed to begin the allotment of lands.

Mr. Bonner replied that the committee's report did not list the shareholders of the CCUB at the time of its bankruptcy, or their next of kin. This information would have to be gathered before the allotment could begin.

HARDING SUPPORTED

CCF leader Arnold Webster supported Mr. Harding. This bill is a far cry from the research committee's recommendation that a land allotment commission be established immediately, he said. Delay could mean lack of success in this most vexatious problem."

Attorney-General Bonner said the government hoped to have a judge undertake the inquiry. "Whoever deals with this act will certainly need all the wisdom of Solomon and the patience of Job. It is a task without precedent in this province," he said.

City Officials 'Scissor' Harry Haigh's Film Role

Plans of the Victoria Amateur Movie club to star Harry Haigh, Victoria's inimitable garbage collector, in a scene at the city's garbage wharf have been abruptly halted.

Mr. Haigh was to have appeared as the star of the garbage section of a picture "A City at Work" now being filmed by the club to enter in an international competition.

In fact some of the earlier street scenes showing Mr. Haigh had already been shot.

Then officialdom stepped in.

When the club moved its photographic equipment to the city's garbage wharf things went along all right until the chief superintendent saw Mr. Haigh on the set.

He decided he'd let the filming proceed as long as Mr. Haigh was on the wharf. He referred Director Colin Kenshole to the city Engineer.

The city engineer was just as firm in his stand against Mr. Haigh. He wrote a letter to Mr. Kenshole stating he had no objections to any scenes of normal garbage operations provided there were no specially staged scenes where Mr. Haigh appeared.

Great Promise Seen In Columbia Valley

The government was urged in the legislature Wednesday night to start treating the Columbia Valley as the eastern gateway to British Columbia rather than the back door.

R. O. Newton (SC, Columbia) declared the valley is rich in industrial promise and could be made an attraction for tourists through a general program of road improvement.

The member said the development of the Spillimacheen hydro project in his riding will make it possible to operate lumber mills and mines more cheaply and permit industries to be established.

"Should more power ever be needed than the Spillimacheen can produce," he said, "there are more power sites available."

"We would like to see the department of trade and industry do everything possible to encourage industries to move into our valley and develop our resources to their fullest extent," he stated.

Agriculture in the Columbia valley needs more support and encouragement from the department of agriculture, he stated.

Hand-e-wrapsodies

A perfect cook is Mrs. D.,
Her roasts are great--on Sunday.
But left unwrapped they lose their zest
And turn out flat--on Monday!

But Mrs. J., a wiser lass,
In Hand-e-wrap preserves 'em;
Her roasts stay fresh and flavorful
No matter when she serves 'em!

Hand-e-wrap
HEAVY WAXED PAPER

It's smart kitchen economy to wrap your meat, fish and vegetables in heavy, double-waxed Hand-e-wrap. No other product so completely preserves food flavor and prevents waste.

SAVE WITH Hand-e-wrap • REFILLS. Pop a new refill roll into your empty Hand-e-wrap container. Saves the cost of a new container every time!

Comes in 100 and 200 foot rolls.

BUT THERE IS A WAY TO AVOID TAKING DRUG TYPE LAXATIVES AND TO PLACE YOUR DEPENDENCE ON NATURE. IF LACK OF BULK IN THE DIET IS YOUR TROUBLE

Inflation Crimps Santa Claus Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Inflation hit Santa Claus' local travel plans Tuesday. Lyn G. Jamison manager of the Ottawa Board of Trade, said the annual Santa Claus parade has been canceled this year because it costs too much to bring him into town in the style to which he is accustomed. Floats and costumes would cost $9,200 compared to last year's $8,000.

Manchester, England, a thriving settlement in Roman times, was not officially created a city until 1853.

B.C. Electric Men Set Strike Vote Date

VANCOUVER (CP) — A strike vote by 400 Vancouver electrical workers employed by the B.C. Electric Co. will be held October 19, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL) said Wednesday.

Another 100 IBEW men in the Fraser Valley, involved in the same dispute, will vote Oct. 21 at Abbotsford. No date has been set for the ballot of a third group of 100 at Victoria.

Request for a government-supervised strike vote came after the workers turned down a conciliation board's majority report in their wage dispute with the BCE.

The report recommended no wage increase but approved the IBEW'S demands for fringe benefits.

Union business manager George Gee said Wednesday the company was making no attempt to reach an agreement and warned "our only recourse will be to shut down the industry."

He said if a strike is called essential and emergency electrical services will be maintained.

Domestic service would not be affected but electrical power to industry in the Lower Mainland, Fraser Valley and Victoria would be cut off if a strike materialized.

The BCE linemen are seeking a 10-per cent wage increase, which would boost the basic rate to $2.43 an hour.

World's Airlines Ponder Unclaimed Reservations

MONTREAL (CP) — The world's airlines studied the problem posed by unclaimed reservations Wednesday and decided to do something about it.

The traffic committee of the International Air Transport Association said unclaimed reservations have cost United States and Canadian airlines "many millions of dollars in a year."

The committee's report to IATA's ninth general meeting urged the creation of an "inspection team" to check back through records of airline offices to the actual passengers who did not show up after making reservations.

OVER-BOOKING

"Carriers have, of course, contended with the no-show problem by a certain amount of over-booking," the committee noted. "Short-cut expedients of this nature by themselves are not a solution.

"The reason more drastic action has not previously been taken is that the carriers have had difficulty in assessing the degree to which different factors have been responsible for the problem."

The committee was under the chairmanship of Dr. F. von Bulluseck of Amsterdam, vice-president of KLM Royal Dutch Airlines.

The committee also reported that "substantial advances" have been made in cutting red tape at international borders, particularly in South American countries, but difficulties are still encountered in regions of the Middle East and Far East.

At the same time, many countries have reduced the number of documents and the local charges required for the international passengers. The committee reported "considerable activity" in this respect in the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Australia, Pakistan, Peru, Portugal, Spain, Uruguay, Venezuela, Columbia, Fiji, Guam and the Philippines.

TOO MUCH ALIKE

Denis H. Handover, chairman of IATA traffic conferences during the last year reported that many airlines object to allowing tourist passengers to travel with first-class passengers because it made the services almost similar.

Mr. Handover, representative from Scandinavian airlines, said at a press conference later that first class and tourist class amenities are likely to remain distinct in the future. Tourist class travel, especially in Europe, is becoming more austere and there will be a greater difference between the two.

Size Six-B Shoe Now Most Popular

Herman Delman, who's been manufacturing women's footwear for 30 years, says that the most popular size in shoes now is six-B. The most popular size among our mothers was four B.

But Delman says the modern woman doesn't mind her feet getting bigger.

"As a matter of fact," he comments, "the small foot no longer is fashionable. Neither American nor European women seem interested in crowding their feet into a size too tight."

Says the shoemaker—"Eights and nines are ordinary sizes for us. A size three these days is as rare as the high-button shoe."

U.K. Products Dominate Tito-Staged Trade Fair

ZAGREB (NANA) — British manufacturers outnumber all other foreign exhibitors, though the Germans run a close second, at Tito's biggest-ever annual industrial fair here.

Tito's planners have been flocking to admire products from Britain's industrial north, machinery, machine tools, electrical and farm equipment, trucks and giant tractors. But the large Yugoslav section of the fair struck foreign businessmen as largely a propaganda exhibit.

Yugoslav-built heavy products from cranes to giant lathes were prominently displayed. But inquisitive foreign businessmen asking for prices, delivery dates, discovered many of the exhibits were "prototypes," which will never go into production.

Many visiting peasants, however, have clearly been impressed by this display of Tito's "growing industrial might."

Douglas K. Vannatter Goes on Trial

Evidence of Speed Given in Manslaughter Case

The Crown will attempt to prove that Douglas K. Vannatter "must have been driving carelessly" to become involved in a fatal accident last April 16, counsel W. H. M. Haldane, QC, told Assize Court Wednesday.

Vannatter's trial on a manslaughter charge opened before [illegible] and a jury. Vannatter was charged following an accident in which A. M. Cowan was killed. Both were stationed at Gordon Head Army camp at the time.

PHONED TO CAMP

The evidence would show that Vannatter and a companion were in Victoria the night of the accident and phoned the camp for return transportation, duty driver Cowan and a companion answering the call, Mr. Haldane said.

It would show that the accused drove the vehicle from the city and that it was driven at speed, or by some other cause, off the road into a ditch, striking and shearing a guy wire and overturning on the traveled portion of Ruby Road, pinning Cowan and the accused, Mr. Holdane said.

FOUND MAN DEAD

Crown counsel stressed that Vannatter, now a civilian, received his army discharge at normal expiration of his duty [illegible] action from the accident.

Dr. E. L. McNiven told the court he attended the accident scene at 5 a.m., finding a man dead under the overturned truck. He concluded, the doctor said, that death was instant due to extensive fractures of the skull.

Arthur N. Clark, whose Gordon Head Road residence is about 300 yards from Ruby Road, related that while feeding his baby about 4 a.m. on April 16 he saw headlights pass his home.

"I thought it was going too fast for the type of road," he said in answer to a question.

He heard a noise shortly afterward and discovered the the army vehicle weighed three accident at the corner of Ruby tons.
Road, he said.

He helped extricate the accused from the wreckage.

The case resumes at 10 this morning and is expected to go to the jury in the late afternoon. Crown counsel indicated that noon.

Units Co-operating In Fire Prevention

BY JIM BRAHAN

National Fire Prevention Week, October 4 to 10, is being observed in the Pacific Command with lectures and demonstrations given by the naval fire service to all armed forces and civilian personnel in the command.

Lieutenant-Commander J. D. Crowther, command fire chief, is responsible for the fire protection of the Naval Dockyard, Work Point Barracks, HMCS Naden, Munro Head, the ammunition magazines and fuel oil depot, boom defense, Canadian Services College, Royal Roads; Belmont Park, and other service married quarters. The naval fire service is also on second call to the municipality of Esquimalt.

OTHERS ASSIST

Assisting the command fire chief in bringing to the attention of personnel, the seriousness of fire, its cause and practical control are Lieut. G. R. Lay, base fire chief; Fire Lieut. J. Bryan and Alarm Technician J. Mockford.

The lectures and demonstrations are being given in order that a concerted effort may be made to keep the number of fires and of loss incurred to a minimum.

TO ATTEND MATINEE

Fifty pupils of the John Stubbs Memorial School at Belmont Park, who have made a fire inspection of their own homes will attend the Saturday morning matinee at the Odeon Theatre. The navy bus, which will transport the students will be escorted to the theatre by a navy fire engine, and fire chief's car. Preceding the movie, the children will be given a short talk on the prevention of fire.

Saanich, Employees Sign Agreement

Formal agreement on the 1953 contract has been signed by Saanich municipality and the Municipal Employees' Association (TLC), it was reported Wednesday.

The signing completes negotiations that were officially begun in February and saw a three-week strike by the workers in support of wage requests and other conditions and settlement of the dispute on a temporary agreement.

NEW DEMANDS LOOM

Both groups, however, are faced with the prospect of new demands next month. A change in the contract date was agreed upon, January 15.

The Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act provides that notification for amendments to the contract may, within the period of two months preceding the agreement expiry date, be served by either party for commencement of collective bargaining.

The 60-day period in this case is November 15.

MAY BE TABLED

There has been no indication of whether new demands will be sought. It is thought likely that by agreement of each side any new requests would be tabled until after election of a new council on January 1.

Four By-Laws Get Approval

Final passage has been given in Saanich to four waterworks local improvement by-laws.

They are for Gillie Avenue, Ascot Drive, Spring Road and Mount Baker View Road. Apportionment by-laws for Gillie Avenue and Ascot Drive also were passed.

Employees at Dockyard Will Join Association

The Dockyard Branch of the Civil Servants' Association has voted to join the National Defense Employees' Association, effective January 1, vice-president J. E. Carey said Wednesday.

The national organization was only recently set up to combine all civil servants and prevailing rates employees serving in army, navy and air force establishments.

About 900 will be affected here, and some 9,000 workers across Canada.

Mr. Carey is a B.C. organizer for the national group, whose functions will be increased at the new year.

Patients Delay Use of 'Y' Pool

It will be two or three weeks before persons recovering from polio will use the YMCA pool and physical training facilities for rehabilitation, George Masters, administrator of Royal Jubilee Hospital, said Wednesday.

"It is an excellent offer the YMCA has made and I am sure the hospital's polio team will take advantage of it as soon as they have a patient ready," he said.

By Sensible Labor, Management, Government Get-Together

'Rollback to Normalcy' Urged by Tomlinson

A "sensible get-together" between labor, management and government was urged Wednesday in the legislature by G. H. Tomlinson (SC—North Vancouver) as a means of securing "a rollback" to normalcy.

"It is obvious that this will create in many instances financial embarrassment and that debt adjustment legislation may be necessary," he declared.

Mr. Tomlinson blamed the former Coalition administration for the loss of markets for B.C. products.

BIG UNEARNED PROFIT

"When our Coalition government taxed less than one per cent on the lumbering industry, when our neighbor province Alberta was charging 10 per cent, it allowed an unearned profit of around $50,000,000 in one year alone—1951," he stated.

"Labor can be content and doing well and when agents point out these excess profits, labor wants its share—no labor—no profit," he continued. "Did these companies use these profits to lower costs to customers, such as Great Britain? They did not, they charged every cent the traffic would bear, and today where are these markets?"

Mr. Tomlinson said that the former government did not exact a fair share for the people from the utilization of the province's natural resources.

BORROWING CRITICIZED

The member criticized the Coalition government, also, for borrowing heavily during prosperous times.

"The pace we were going under Coalition would have terminated in bankruptcy," he said.

Mr. Tomlinson was critical of the "snake-pit" description tied to the Winkinson Road mental home earlier in the session by Leo Nimsich (CCF—Cranbrook).

He explained that conditions were not nearly so bad as they were painted by the opposition member and said it deplorable that any such institution should become a political football.

"This government will, I know, do all in its power to alleviate the burden placed upon the staff at Wilkinson Road owing to changing conditions," he declared. "Social Credit is alert to the conditions that are causing ever-growing numbers of mental cases."

Mr. Tomlinson suggested that the silhouette lighting at the Legislative Buildings be left on 15 minutes after midnight during the tourist season.

"Hundreds of people leaving on the midnight boat go up on deck to see the display and there is quite a sigh when the lights go out at sharp midnight," he said. "It would be appreciated by these tourists if they could get a 'now is the hour' thrill and memory as the boat is slowly leaving the dock."

Mr. Tomlinson referred proudly to his own riding of North Vancouver as "the best in B.C." He added also that it was the only riding in the province where people had to pay toll charges to enter and leave.

He gave a glowing description of the scenic, recreation and industrial attractions of his riding.

He declared, however, that the provincial highway running eight miles east from North Vancouver to Deep Cove is in "deplorable condition." He asked also that there was some "link," the minister of public works to reconstruct the road while preliminary work is under way on the upper level road from North Vancouver to Horseshoe Bay.

Mr. Tomlinson suggested that the purchase of the Second Narrows bridge by the CNR was the forerunner of "big expansion projects." He suggested also that there was some "link," between the federal and municipal governments on the railway deal and advised Premier Bennett when he is next in Ottawa to make inquiries about it because he believed it involved the "missing link" in the Squamish-North Vancouver railway.

CNR Adds Voice To Rate Protest

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian National Railways spokesman Wednesday criticized freight rate changes announced by the board of transport commissioners Monday as a temporary rate-equalization measure.

Alex Hart of Montreal, CNR commission counsel, described the moves as "fraught with danger for the railways." He was presenting evidence to the board as it continued hearings on equalization.

The action protested by the government-owned company was a decision by the board to order the railways to reduce class ceiling rates in western Canada by five per cent and to authorize compensating increases of up to 10 per cent in Ontario and Quebec.

The changes, to be effective November 15, as an interim measure pending implementation of a more detailed plan of equalization between areas to go into effect January 1, 1955.

The Canadian Pacific Railway also has taken issue with the board's action.

"The interim order is not equalization," Mr. Hart said Wednesday, "and we believe the experience gained under it will not help the board or the CNR towards their final goal.

"Instead, it is a solution fraught with danger to the railways. The losses are certain; the gains are more than problematical.

"Should our fears be realized," Mr. Hart added, "the CNR reserves its right to reopen the matter with the board."

The CNR counsel also expressed some reservations as to the eventual success of the whole scheme of class-rate equalization being worked out under 1951 parliamentary legislation.

Dial RO6262E

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man (Reuters) — When a boy wants to dance with a girl at a hotel here and he is too shy to ask her, all he has to do is pick up the telephone on his table and dial hers.

And so far the telephone calls for shy dancers have brought romance to nine couples. Three are married and six are engaged.

The telephones were installed on the numbered tables in the hotel's ballroom by the manager, William Watson, who noticed how often boys were too shy to walk across to a girl's table and ask her to dance.

"But they are not shy of phoning and the idea has made dances at the hotel much easier and happier," he said.

Ship's Captain Launches Damage Suit Against Union for Vancouver Picketing

VANCOUVER (CP) — The captain of the 10,000-ton freighter Sunjewel Wednesday opened suit against the Seafarers' International Union (AFL-TLC), picketing his ship at Ballantyne pier here.

The picket line was thrown around the Sunjewel earlier Wednesday. Thirty-six crew members walked off their jobs as soon as the ship docked here from the Aluminum Company of Canada project at Kitimat.

The Sunjewel is owned by Saguenay terminals, Montreal. It is the first ship to be struck bound on the West Coast as a result of the 10-day-old Eastern Canada strike against 11 deepsea shipping companies.

Capt. H. R. Coles is suing the SIU for damages to the cargo of his ship which he claims cannot be unloaded due to the picketing of the union. He also seeks an injunction to prevent "the illegal picketing" of the SIU around his ship and in the vicinity.

The writ was obtained Wednesday by J. R. Cunningham, counsel for Saguenay Terminals. Named as defendants are Norman Cunningham, port agent of the union, and 24 members of the Sunjewel crew.

The writ seeks damages "for injury arising out of the delivery of cargo aboard The Ss. Sunjewel by the conspiracy of the defendants in maintaining an illegal picket line . . . and preventing the entry and access of seamen, stevedores and others engaged to discharge the ship."

Captain Coles told strikers they face prosecution for breach of contract under the Canada Shipping Act, but Cunningham advised the men "we have complied with all the regulations of the contract and we are calling a legal strike at this time."

The ordinary house gas meter is still the same basic design that was invented in 1844.

Cunningham said another Saguenay Terminals is a subsidiary of the Aluminum Company of Canada. vessel of the same firm, the SunWhit, will be struck when pany she stops at Vancouver, Wash. on her way from Kitimat. The Sunwit was originally scheduled to dock here. The seafarers' union is seeking an increase and a 40-hour week for its members.

College Classmate of Spy Calls Firing Unwarranted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A college classmate of Morton Sobell, convicted spy, identified himself Wednesday as one of the radar specialists suspended by the army on security grounds.

Like others who have named themselves, he denied that he was a security risk and said he would fight the charges which brought his suspension from a civilian post at the army's Ft. Monmouth, N.J., radar research laboratories.

The Newark Evening News said Aaron H. Coleman, 35, of Long Branch, N.J., related that he was told by the government he was being suspended because of people he knew in college and at work.

"Unfortunately," Coleman told The News, "I was in the same graduating class with Sobell and some others. I had no social relations with him after that. But in my capacity as a government project engineer I met him several times at the Reeves Instrument Corp. plant in New York."

Sobell was convicted of spying along with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, atom spies who were executed. But Sobell's conviction did not involve atom secrets, and he was sentenced to 30 years.

Coleman, declaring "I am completely innocent," said he had made "positive contributions" to aviation and radar defenses and had served as a marine lieutenant in charge of a radar unit in the Pacific during the Second World War.

The army announced Tuesday night only that several employees of its signal corps laboratory at Ft. Monmouth had been "suspended for security reasons." It declined to give the number released, their names or the exact nature of the charges against them.

A Boston lawyer, Samuel Markell, said he would file an appeal on behalf of Hyam G. Yamins of Newton, Mass., whom he identified as one of the suspended employees. "We are convinced that there is no basis for the suspension," he said.

The News also said Harold Dicore of Long Branch had told it he was another of those suspended, after 12 years working on radar projects at Ft. Monmouth, and quoted him: "I certainly intend to fight these charges."

Negotiations Reopened In Walkout

OTTAWA (CP)—New moves developed Wednesday in Canada's deepsea shipping industry, beset by dwindling business and a crippling seamen's strike.

In Montreal, broken-off negotiations were resumed between shipowners and the Seafarers' International Union which called a strike September 28 aboard some 45 Canadian-flag ships.

In Ottawa it was learned a cabinet committee plans to meet a delegation of owners October 15 to discuss deepsea shipping policy generally. The question of subsidies to keep the fleet operating is expected to be discussed.

The ship operators have been pressing the government for months to provide financial help for the ships, which have been up against increasing competition for deep-water cargoes.

Resumption of company-union talks at Montreal, it was understood, was brought about at the suggestion of the labor department. Bernard Wilson, senior man in the labor relations section here, is sitting in with the disputants.

Majority of Egyptians have been of the Moslem faith since the 7th century.

Air Cargo Hearings Slated by Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Wednesday the cabinet will hold private hearings October 30 and 31 before making a decision on the air freight application of Canadian Pacific Airlines.

The privately-owned airline and the government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines, which opposes the application, will be asked to submit arguments to the cabinet, he said.

The CPA seeks a license to fly scheduled air cargo flights from Montreal to Vancouver by way of The Pas, Man., and Edmonton. A monopoly on east-west scheduled air cargo carriage is now held by TCA.

Mr. St. Laurent announced following a cabinet meeting that representatives of the two airlines will be given three hours October 30 and three hours October 31 to present argument. He said the hearings will be private.

If granted a license, CPA proposes to enter the east-west air cargo business with a 53-ton DC6A cargo plane worth about $1,000,000. The aircraft has a 15-ton payload and 5,000 cubic feet of air-conditioned cargo space for carrying perishable goods and livestock. It cruises at 311 miles an hour and has a range of 2,800 miles with a 30,000-pound pay load.

Until now the government's policy has been that Trans-Canada Air Lines should be allowed to operate without competition.

However, opposition groups in parliament have said in the past that a monopoly such as TCA is detrimental to the public good.

IRA Members Sentenced In Arms Case

HERTFORD, England (AP) — Three self-styled members of the unofficial Irish Republican army were sentenced to eight years imprisonment Wednesday on charges of stealing guns and ammunition from a British arsenal.

One of the defendants told the court: "We are members of the IRA and we believe the only way to drive the British army from our country is by force of arms.

"For that purpose we think it no crime to capture arms from our enemies. We make no apologies for our action."

Members of the IRA, which works without approval of the Irish Republic, aim to incorporate Northern Ireland, which is part of the United Kingdom, into Southern Ireland.

It took the jury less than one minute to find the men guilty of breaking into an arsenal building, stealing 108 rifles and eight Bren guns, and possessing housebreaking implements.

One of the trio, Sean Stephenson, 25, is a Londoner. The other two, Cathal Goulding, 31, and Manus Canning, 27, gave addresses in Ireland.

New Pakistan Population Aims at Parliament Rule

KARACHI (Reuters) — The Pakistani Constituent Assembly began Wednesday welding a constitution bringing full parliamentary democracy to the 76,000,000 people of this Moslem state six years after its birth.

Prime Minister Mohammed Ali told the assembly that the constitution proposals before it will protect fundamental human rights, provide for political, religious and social equality and, above all, "insure that the integrity and independence of our country are fully secured."

The assembly has already agreed to most of the proposals. But it is not known how it will vote on the most controversial issue: whether to break Pakistan's ties with the British Crown and become an independent republic.

The answer will come in debate on an amendment in the name of Sind politician Mohammed Ayub Khuhro, proposing that Pakistan be described in the preamble to the constitution as a "sovereign independent republic."

There is a possibility this amendment will not be debated. Khuhro has lost his seat since presenting the amendment.

But another amendment, proposed by a member outside the Moslem League (government party) calls for severance of Pakistan's ties with the Commonwealth, except diplomatic ties.

The government itself has not made up its mind on the republic issue.

The proposals are based on the constitution committee report presented last December. Constitution-making was delayed until now by fierce arguments in various regions.

Prime Minister Ali solved the differences by getting states to agree on a federal legislature with two houses, holding equal power and elected for five years. The lower house of the people will be formed on a population basis. The upper chamber will represent geographical units.

Both houses will jointly elect the head of state.

Other proposals of the basic principals committee are that the state should be an Islamic democracy with economic policy directed against the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few and against the exploitation of labor.

Cobalt Bomb Survives Road Crash

TRENTO, Italy (Reuters) — A truck carrying the first radio-active cobalt "bomb" for treatment of cancer and other diseases in continental Europe crashed head-on with another truck Wednesday.

The two-ton steel sphere, containing about half an ounce of the precious material, was not damaged. It was moved to another vehicle and taken to the steel-lined cellar of a hospital near here.

The driver of the truck had expected the cobalt to explode. He placed his arms over his head after the crash and waited for his end.

He had called for the sphere at Genoa and driven slowly and carefully almost to Trento when the crash occurred.

The cobalt sphere, assembled in Ottawa, is a gift from the Canadian government to Italy.

Kidnapped Boy Found Shot; Three Charged with Murder

KANSAS CITY (AP) Little Bobby Greenlease's body was dug out of a shallow grave Wednesday, ending with sickening tragedy 10 days of waiting by his wealthy parents who paid a record $600,000 ransom for his return.

Arrested as his kidnappers were the woman who lived in the house in St. Joseph, Mo., where the body was found, and her ex-convict boy friend, Carl Austin Hall, 37, whose spending spree in St. Louis led police to part of the ransom money.

The slightly-built, six-year-old boy had been shot and killed the same day the woman, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, took him from his private school by a ruse.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and police are searching for Thomas Marsh, 37, another paroled convict who, Hall said, shot and killed Bobby. Earlier, the FBI had said Hall, a former rich boy turned bandit, had admitted the little boy was shot even before he mailed the ransom note to the father, multi-millionaire Robert C. Greenlease Sr., 71-year-old automobile dealer, and his wife.

Hall said he had not seen Marsh since the first day of the kidnapping, and had carried out negotiations for the ransom payment alone.

At St. Joseph, prosecutor John E. Downs signed first-degree murder warrants against Hall, Mrs. Heady and Marsh Wednesday night. Downs said an assistant would go to St. Louis Thursday and try to have Hall and Mrs. Heady taken to St. Joseph for trial.

Federal and county prosecutors in Kansas City were still conferring to determine whether state or federal kidnapping charges will be filed. Charges under either statute carry the death penalty.

Hall and Mrs. Heady were arrested by St. Louis police, who got a tip Hall was on a spending spree. They found $300,000 of the ransom money in a room at a motor court.

Questioning by police and the FBI brought out the sordid story of the abduction, the murder and five days of negotiation for payment of the ransom.

A fourth person was questioned by the FBI here Wednesday and held as a material witness. She is Sandra June O'Day, 22, of St. Louis.

The tragic turn in the kidnapping came after elaborate delivery of the ransom.

The money, stuffed in an army duffel bag, had been dumped out of a car by a Greenlease representative Sunday night.

The family had complied with a letter demanding $600,000 in $10 and $20 bills. The letter was received the night of the kidnapping.

The bag was dropped over a bridge a few miles from Kansas City. Shortly afterward a telephone call told the family it would learn through a telegram Monday, October 5, where to find the boy.

The telegram never came.

Bill Gets Support

Socreds, CCF in Agreement On Principle of Profits Levy

BY T. A. MYERS
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The legislature Wednesday night overwhelmingly approved the principle of new 10 per cent taxes on logging and mining profits. Only Liberal and Conservative members opposed them.

CCFers in the House endorsed the taxation, but expressed fear that big forest industries might be able to "slip out from under" and "shove the tax burden onto the small operators."

Premier Bennett, in a long dissertation on the intent of the bills, the arguments against them and the government's counter-arguments, said the new taxes might produce $3,500,000 in a good year, but probably not more than $1,000,000 for the balance of this fiscal year.

Liberal leader Arthur Laing, opposing the bills, demanded to know if the province really needed the extra money when it could afford to pay off $34,000,000 of the public debt in a year.

Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers gave the House a peek at the government's cards when he said the government plans to ask Ottawa for a better federal-provincial taxation deal. If the province had not exhausted all the revenue possibilities under the present agreement and that included the proposed new taxes "we wouldn't have a case," he said.

Premier Bennett told the House companies would be able to deduct the new taxes as business expenses when computing their federal income taxes.

He cited the case of a company with a taxable income of $1,000,000. The company's total tax would go up from $484,000 to $508,000, an increase of $24,000. The province would gain $17,000; Ottawa would lose only $23,500 he said.

Opposition Leader Arnold Webster, giving the CCF's blessing to the bills, complimented the government for "the few steps it has taken toward redistribution of the tax burden."

Mr. Laing said his Liberal group was against the bills "and we will do everything in this House and outside of it to oppose them. Our basic industries are in such a parlous state that to put an extra burden on them is sheerest folly."

He said this year's log cut had been "too good for our general good." There were 900,000,000 feet of logs in the water, unsold, he said.

'MOST DANGEROUS'

"Our short-range position in this province is the most dangerous we have experienced since 1929," he declared. "I want to tell the leader of the opposition that before we get back here in February he'll regret supporting these bills. Where do you think the extra money is going to come from? . . . It all lands on labor . . . Labor is going to have to accept lower wages or go without a job."

Anthony Gargrave (CCF, Mackenzie), Robert M. Strachan (CCF, Cowichan-Newcastle) and other CCFers voiced fears that big corporations could evade the tax at the expense of small operators.

"The big companies are ready for this tax," Mr. Strachan said. "They've had plenty of warning. They're not afraid of it."

The CCF view was that large, integrated forest industries could force down the market price of logs. A few operations control 60 per cent of the logging on the Coast, Mr. Strachan said, and buy up the other 40 per cent of the logs produced. By holding out they could depress the price of logs

Slow Drivers Facing Prod

A prod for slow drivers was a surprise included in a bill to amend the Motor Vehicles Act introduced in the legislature Wednesday night.

The bill would prohibit driving at "such a slow speed as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic, except when reduced speed is necessary for safe operation or in compliance with law."

A feature of the bill which was well publicized in advance would cut passenger-car license fees by 10 per cent.

Other sections allow magistrates to suspend driver's licenses on conviction of dangerous driving under the Criminal Code, and legalize suspension of licenses under the "driver education program" now used by the Motor Vehicles Branch against drivers with poor records.

The license fee reductions apply only to passenger cars, motorcycles and trailers. License fees" are based on the weight of the vehicles, and the new schedule is as follows (with 1953 figures in brackets):

1,500 pounds or less, $10.80 ($12).
1,501 to 2,000 pounds, $14.40 ($16).
2,001 to 3,000 pounds, $18 ($20).
3,001 to 4,000 pounds, $22.50 ($25).
4,001 to 5,000 pounds, $31.50 ($35).
5,001 to 6,000 pounds, $45 ($50).
6,001 to 7,000 pounds, $58.50 ($65).

Most popular passenger cars weigh between 2,000 and 4,000 pounds. License fees for these cars will drop by $2 or $2.50.

Log Truck Hurls Bus Into Canyon

The bus was hurled from the highway 50 feet down into the South Santiam River canyon.

The huge Douglas fir logs sheared the cab from the logging truck, then plummeted after the bus, battering its top.

The bus driver and 12 passengers suffered injuries—mostly to heads and backs. But attendants at two hospitals said that, barring the effects of shock, all should recover.

The truck driver, Harold Sharp, 27, Brownsville, Ore., was dead when rescuers arrived. Coroner Glenn Huston said bus passengers told him they saw Sharp's head back against the seat and his mouth open, just before the crash. He might have suffered a heart attack or other seizure, the coroner said.

Blaze Injures Twelve

VANCOUVER (CP) — At least 12 firemen were injured Wednesday night as a stubborn blaze destroyed a modern Canada Safeway Ltd., market in south Vancouver.

Company officials estimated damage at $350,000. The $275,000 building and more than $60,000 worth of merchandise were a total loss.

The firemen were overcome by smoke when they attempted to enter the charred structure more than four hours after the blaze broke out. Ambulances set up a shuttle service between hospital and the fire and other firemen were treated on the scene for minor injuries.

The fire was started by a spark from a welder's torch which ignited insulation in the wall of a basement meat locker. The flames gained a hold on the insulation despite the efforts of three workmen, only persons in the store at the time.

The store was closed up at 1 p.m. for the regular Wednesday half-day holiday. The fire started about 2.30 p.m.

Clouds of acrid smoke billowed from the building. Accumulations of gas in the basement caused two explosions.

Firemen estimated that it would take most of the night to get the smoke cleared enough to enter the basement.

Cash Count Massive Job

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Arthur B. Eisenhower, brother of the U.S. President, said Wednesday night he was asked in the forenoon of Tuesday, September 29, to provide $600,000 in ransom money to the father of slain Bobby Greenlease.

Eisenhower appeared at a special press conference.

"I was first called into this case by Mr. (Robert) Ledterman and Robert Greenlease at the bank sometime in the forenoon of September 29," he said. Eisenhower is vice-president of the Commerce Trust Co., one of Kansas City's largest banks.

Eisenhower said Ledterman, a business partner of millionaire Greenlease, did most of the talking. They asked him if he had $600,000.

"I said 'Yes'," Eisenhower said. "We have much more than that."

"We mean in 10s and 20s," Eisenhower quoted Ledterman as saying.

"I replied 'No,' since that had to come from 12 federal reserve banks," Eisenhower said. The money was obtained Tuesday afternoon and at 9.30 a.m. Wednesday, September 30, it was ready.

Asked if the serial numbers were recorded, Eisenhower said, "No comment."

He said 80 persons worked overtime counting the money.

"They had a good idea of what they were doing, but we tried to keep it a secret," Eisenhower said.

The money was $200,000 in 10s and $100,000 in 20s, making a total of 40,000 bills.

Chest Total $50,622

The Greater Victoria Community Chest is now nearly one-quarter of the way to its objective with the current collection campaign going into its eighth day.

An audit of collections, completed by Chest officials Wednesday night, showed that residents of Greater Victoria have so far contributed $50,622.42 to the coffers of the Chest.

Officials said the house-to-house canvass in residential districts has brought in a total of $9,943.87 so far.

Arrival of Warships Assailed by Leftist

GEORGETOWN (CP) — A British cruiser and two frigates arrived here Wednesday night with 600 troops to thwart a feared Communist uprising in British Guiana.

The warships arrived shortly after leftist Premier Cheddi Jagan failed in a bid to have the House of Assembly (lower house) condemn the presence of British forces.

Jagan's motion said the presence of British forces was "an act of intimidation and provocation likely to precipitate incidents and to endanger the peace and harmony of this country."

The Speaker, Sir Eustace Woolford, over-ruled Jagan's effort to suspend the standing rules to debate his motion.

The premier had proposed that his resolution be forwarded to Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton, the British Labor party, the National Council of Civil Liberties in Britain and the Congress of Civil Rights in the United States.

Jagan also asked that the resolution be sent to the United Nations and various other international bodies.

The three warships anchored off Georgetown Wednesday night. The 8,000-ton cruiser Superb had 500 Royal Welsh Fusiliers aboard. Officials believed the 1,600-ton frigates Bigbury Bay and Burghead Bay would ferry the troops ashore during the night.

In the capital, police and military headquarters were floodlighted in case of mob action.

The 9,100-ton cruiser Sheffield sailed from Scotland Tuesday and the second-largest Royal Navy aircraft carrier, the 33,000-ton Implacable, prepared to rush reinforcements across the Atlantic.

The People's Progressive party said in a statement earlier:

". . . There is no disturbance, unrest or violence. In this hour, when the British colonial office is trying to create hysteria and rob us of our rights, we ask the people of Guiana to remain calm, quiet and firm."

Shaky Area Big Source Of Bauxite

MONTREAL (CP)—Officials of the Aluminum Company of Canada said Wednesday they are keeping a close watch on developments in troubled British Guiana, where the firm has an investment of $30,000,000.

The firm did not want to become entangled in a straight political situation, but wanted to safeguard its property.

President R. E. Powell said the firm's huge bauxite works have not been threatened with nationalization or labor difficulties, although demands are being made on the colony's sugar industry.

Bauxite is the ore from which aluminum is manufactured, and Mr. Powell said that by the end of next year the company's investment in production of bauxite there would reach $40,000,000.

Mr. Powell said there is a nest of Communism, fostered if not financed by Russia, operating in the colony.

He said it would be a catastrophe if what happened in Iran was repeated in British Guiana. He urged Britain, the United States and Canada to take steps to prevent the colony from falling under Red leadership.

Adenauer Set On Coalition

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has decided to form a four-party coalition to govern West Germany during the next four years, informed political sources said Wednesday night.

The 77-year-old chancellor, who won a sweeping election victory on September 6, plans to bring the Refugee party into his new coalition with the Free Democrats, the German party and his Christian Democrats, these sources said.

Adenauer has been ruling with a three-party coalition of Christian Democrats, Free Democrats and the German party. The Refugee party won seats in the federal parliament for the first time in the last election.

The new four-party coalition will assure the chancellor of a clear two-thirds majority in the Bundestag, lower house of parliament.

Traffic Check Makes Haul

A traffic check by RCMP and Game department officials Wednesday will result in several charges.

From 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Colwood detachment of the RCMP and Game Wardens Bob Sinclair and Joe Jones checked all traffic coming down-Island.

Some drivers were found without driving licenses and some were found driving while licenses were suspended. A number of check-up slips were issued to drivers whose cars were defective.

Game officials seized one rifle.

RCMP checked 46 gravel trucks at their weigh-in station in the afternoon. Charges will be held against four found overweight.

Spill from gravel trucks has proved a nuisance on the Island Highway in recent weeks.

Coast ILA Bolting

SEATTLE (AP). — A leader of the International Longshoremen's Association said Wednesday most of its 1,500 west coast members have bolted the Joe Ryan-led national union for the AFL.

Robert R. Collins of Seattle said he has resigned as an international vice-president of the ILA, and that most of the old ILA locals on the Pacific coast have applied for separate AFL charters.

He said the locals seeking AFL charters include those in Tacoma, Port Angeles and Anacortes, Wash., and Anchorage, Valdez, Haines and Homer, Alaska.

The ILA on the west coast has had members only in Washington state, British Columbia and Alaska.

Collins said he and George Miller of Tacoma, president of the ILA's Pacific coast district, applied for AFL charters for both Pacific Coast and Puget Sound districts.

The action confirmed a move forecast by Collins when Ryan's ILA was expelled by the AFL at the latter's national convention in St. Louis last month.

"Our people here always have been AFL-minded," Collins said.

"We want to stay with the AFL, which always has supported us. Out here on the west coast the ILA never has been accused of racketeering or other crimes like those charged in the New York area."

Faults in Rock Blamed

Whatshan Slides Long Feared

VANCOUVER (CP) — Earth slides were threatening the Whatshan hydro-electric development at least 14 months before disastrous mud and rock slides put the power plant out of action.

That was disclosed Wednesday at the royal commission hearing here into the cause of the slides August 11 and 16, which buried the B.C. Power Commission's plant and switching station.

Testifying before special commissioner Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne, civil engineer Andrew G. Ballantyne of the power commission said he observed two slow earth slides above the plant in June, 1952.

Earlier, C. W. Tysoe, inquiry counsel, said deep rock faults were causing trouble while the $5,800,000 development was under construction.

S. R. Weston, chairman of the power commission, admitted under questioning that contractors had trouble with faulty rock formations inside the two-mile water tunnel serving the plant. He said was his personal opinion, though not necessarily that of the commission, that faulty rock formations had been indirectly responsible for the slides.
